Few Boos, Lilacs Are Given Red 500 Hear Speech At Hudson Armory

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — A Russian diplomat, greeted by a single picket and a few boos when he arrived for a speech that in advance had touched off a controversy here, afterward received flowers from a woman who said she "thought he got a cool reception."

"I did it as a Christian," the woman told reporters after she had handed Genadi Gavrikov, third secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, a bouquet of lilacs Thursday night. She did not identify herself.

Gavrikov, 30, spoke to approximately 500 persons in the National Guard armory. The building seats about 800.

The city's Common Council had asked the New York National Guard to deny permission to the Russian to speak in the armory and Hudson's mayor had declined to welcome him.

During Gavrikov's speech, a man who identified himself only as a Hungarian refugee, shouted: "You kill our people, you murderer." Police quieted the man and allowed him to remain.

The picket, Ralph S. Figueroa, a 46-year-old taxi driver from South Cairo, carried an American flag and a sign. He said he was a member-at-large of New York City Garrison 94, Army and Navy Union.

Gavrikov was booed by a group of young people as he entered the armory.

Outside the building, about 200 persons awaiting his appearance scattered when rain fell suddenly.

About 20 city policemen and fire police were on hand.

In his speech, Gavrikov said Russians "are for controlled disarmament but against control without disarmament."

"We are for complete disarmament, not for propaganda," he said.

Later, he was questioned by a six-man panel that included news men, businessmen and a minister.

The Hudson Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored Gavrikov's appearance.

To Dispose Of Schools Not in Use 14 Will Be Sold, Board to Keep 6

The disposition of 23 school buildings in the outlying areas of Kingston Schools (Consolidated) was announced today by the board of education.

Fourteen will be sold at public auction, three will be transferred to the townships in which they are located, and six will be retained for use as elementary schools serving the consolidated district.

Ten Are Unoccupied

Ten unoccupied schools to be sold in the near future include Esopus No. 3; St. Remy No. 5; Bontecou No. 6; May Park No. 8; Whiteport No. 6; Edyville No. 1; Lower Sawkill No. 2; Ruby in Ulster No. 3; Stony Hollow in Ulster No. 5; and Zena in Woodstock No. 7.

Four now occupied and expected to be sold at a future date are Creek Locks, Rosendale No. 3; Ulster Park, Emma Wygant and East Kingston.

Schools to be retained for elementary purposes are Port Ewen, Rifton, Hurley, Tilton, Chambers and Lake Katrine.

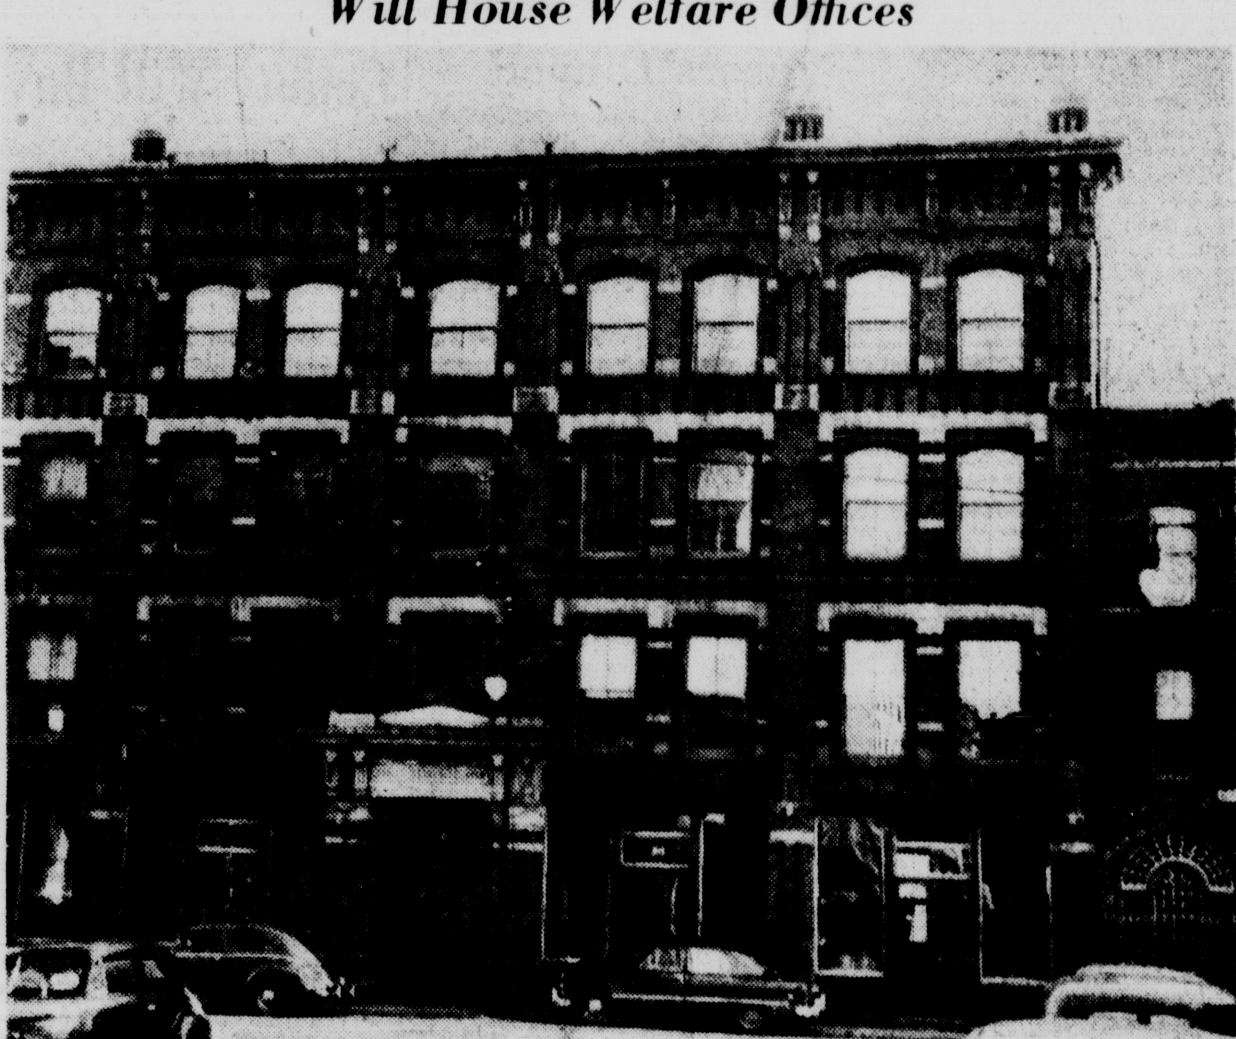

Title transfers will be arranged for the following:

Union Center School to Town of Esopus; Sawkill School to Town of Kingston and Maple Hill School to Town of Rosendale. Each of the townships have made specific requests for the buildings.

To Make Appraisal

The board of education has retained the services of Lawrence J. MacAvery, local realtor to appraise the value of the schools and to sell the property at the earliest possible date.

It will be necessary for the board to advertise a notice of sale, giving descriptions of the property before the disposal sales can be completed. Andrew J. Cook Jr., school attorney will arrange the sales on behalf of the board. He will set the dates of the sales and complete the transfers.

This is the former Cornell Building, 22 Ferry Street, which is to be used for Ulster County welfare offices. At one time it housed the clerical departments of the Cornell Steamboat Company, the Ulster and Delaware Railroad and other operations of the Coykendall estate. More than 100 office workers were employed. In January 1950 it was purchased by Edgar T. Shults and Thomas W. Flemming, who has since died. Ulster County Supervisors at Thursday's meeting voted 17-12 to buy the building for $25,000. (Freeman photo).

Welfare Is Going Downtown Republicans Are Opposed to Move

Purchase of the former Cornell Building at 22 Ferry Street "for a sum not to exceed $25,000" was voted Thursday evening by the board of supervisors.

The resolution by Supervisor Michael W. Melnik, (D), Sixth ward, said the building "ideal to relieve this pressing situation at a price beneficial to the taxpayers of Ulster County" would provide space for the Ulster County Welfare Department which "is now housed in a condemned building."

Vote 17 to 12

The resolution was carried 17 to 12 with three abstaining. Opposed by Republican members primarily on the grounds that there had been insufficient study of cost of renovating the premises, Supervisors Martin (R), 12 ward, Rapp (R) first ward and Storms (R) second ward, abstained.

Adoption of the resolution to purchase the Cornell Building followed the presentation of a bi-partisan report by the Building Committee which suggested erection of a county building to house county offices on the present site of the County Court House.

Prepares Sketches Free

The report stated that the committee had met with Architect Augustus Schrowang who had prepared preliminary sketches of a four story modern type, steel, aluminum and glass building to be erected to the north of the county court house at the rear of the supervisors' room.

These preliminary sketches were prepared at no cost to the county.

The report, which was read and filed, was signed by all members of the committee including Majority Leader Jesse McHugh (R) and Minority Leader John J. Gaffney, (D), Chairman Robert Phinney (R), Charles Relyea (R), Peter Williams (R), Benjamin A. Storms, (R), and George Mollenhauer (D).

The bi-partisan report stated that during the past few months it has become increasingly apparent that there is bi-partisan support for a new county office building and that such building is urgently needed to house County offices and protect irreplaceable records which are on file in many of said offices. Preliminary sketches were prepared by Augustus Schrowang, Kingston licensed architect, at no cost to the county.

Committee Report

The committee report in part states:

"These sketches were prepared upon Mr. Schrowang's understanding as to what the probable requirements would be. Since the date of the last meeting of this Board, your committee has met with the architect on two occasions to discuss the proposed building and the cost thereof. The plans which were proposed called for a modern type steel, aluminum and glass constructed building to be located on the north side of the County Court House to the rear of the present Supervisors' room and would utilize the present exterior wall of the Court House for one side of the building, and would have (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Hearing Set June 7 On $738,282 Raise

A tentative budget of $5,263,218 for the year 1960-61 was approved at a special meeting of the board of education of Kingston School District (Consolidated) Thursday evening.

Last year's budget was $4,524,935.

The estimated tax rate for the city of Kingston under the proposed budget would be $38, which is $4.83 per thousand more than the $33.169 tax rate for the last school year.

Other Rates Not Out Yet

Tax rates for the five outlying school zones—Chambers, Tilton, Lake Katrine, Port Ewen and Hurley—are still not available.

Charles Klothe, business manager of the district, said the tax rate for the outlying school areas cannot be figured until the tax rolls are received from the assessors and equalization rates from Albany.

He said that equalization rates should be "finalized" before the end of this month.

Hearing to Be June 7

The tentative budget is based on estimated tax rolls in the district.

A public hearing on the budget will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, June 7, in the Kingston High School auditorium.

The largest item in the tentative budget is for instructional services (faculty) — $2,778,358. Last year this item amounted to $2,558,820.

Ulster Youth Is Missing Since May 11 Morning

A 16-year-old town of Ulster youth has been missing since the morning of May 11, it was reported today by the Ulster County sheriff's office.

The youth, Joseph Hill, was in a foster home in the township. He was formerly in the Astor Home in Rhinebeck.

He is described as six feet tall, weighing 140 pounds, very slender, with dark brown hair and brown eyes. When last seen he was wearing a white jacket, gray slacks and black shoes.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown said his office would appreciate a call from anyone who may have information on the youth.

Gideons Schedule Weekend Parley At Local Church

Catskill Camp of Gideons International, an association of Christian businessmen, will be host to the New York State Camp presidents' conference Saturday and Sunday at St. James Methodist Church, Fair and Pearl Streets.

Gideons from all parts of the state will rally for the conference meeting at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in the church parlors. A banquet will be held in the dining hall Saturday night for the Gideons and the auxiliary and many of the area clergy men and friends of the Gideons.

Will Visit Churches

Robert A. Ross, promotion manager of Gideons International headquarters staff, will be the guest speaker.

Sunday, Gideons will be appearing in the pulpits of many Protestant Churches in Ulster County to present their ministry to the congregations.

Catskill Camp embraces Greene, Columbia and northern Ulster County, including Kingston.

The Gideons have been placing copies of the Holy Bible in hotel rooms since 1908. More recently, they have placed the Scriptures in hospitals, penal institutions, school classrooms, doctors' and dentists' offices, and in ships and airplanes throughout the world.

Non-Teaching Jobs Back Under CS Here

Non-teaching personnel of the Kingston Consolidated School District, for some time under state civil service jurisdiction through an Albany measure have been returned to control of Kingston's Municipal Service Commission, it was learned today.

Positions involved now number 116.

Dr. Earl F. Soper, school superintendent, said he has been notified of the change and has forwarded information from Albany to Philip F. McDonald, president of the local commission.

Soper Advises on Change

The education board, after consolidation was approved was given the choice of deciding between state and local jurisdiction and decided for the former because of the limited means of the local commission in dealing with the personnel increase resulting from consolidation.

Dr. Soper said he has been advised of the change by H. J. McFarland, director of the New York State Department of Civil Service. The Albany legislation was sponsored by Assemblyman Olin S. Wilcox, of Jefferson County, and Senator Albert Berkowitz, representing Rensselaer and Washington Counties. Both are Republicans.

Gov. Rockefeller signed the bill, authorizing the change, on April 29. The measure, in effect, decides that civil service control of the consolidated district's personnel should revert to the nearest local civil service commission.

After an afternoon at Longchamps race track outside Paris, the 48-year-old prince was driving to his half-brother's home at St. Cloud for a dinner party when his Lancia coupe and a light sedan collided head on in suburban Suresne.

The wealthy prince met death in a dinner jacket with a beautiful woman by his side.

Woerner Asking 4th Ward Folk About Dietz Land

Alderman Lawrence E. Woerner, (D) Fourth Ward noting what he considers lack of "a clean-cut expression of opinion on transfer by the city of Dietz Stadium land to the education board for a junior high school site, revealed today that he has asked for a "post card" expression of sentiment in his ward.

"In recent months," said the alderman, "you have heard and read much controversy" over proposed transfer of 35 acres, and he feels there are "many questions left to be answered on this subject, yet the Board of Education is pressing for legislative action as soon as possible."

Woerner said he felt that in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Stolen PO Safe Has $1,350 Total

A total of $1,350 in cash and stamps was lost Tuesday night when a safe was stolen from the Ulster Park Post Office.

Of this amount, $1,000 was in postage stamps, $75 in savings stamps and $275 in cash.

There were 497 money order forms in the 200-pound York safe.

The back door of the post office was smashed in and the grayish green steel safe, described as 22 by 22 by 24 inches, apparently carted off in an automobile or truck.

The safe also contained certain post office records.

County Investigators Arthur Brown and Postal Inspector Robert Daley yesterday toured various areas where safes have been dumped in the past but without success.

Changes in Monitor Board Stalling Teamster Cleanup

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A shake-up in membership of the Teamsters Union Monitor Board is stalling a union cleanup just when it was getting somewhere, Terence F. McShane said today.

McShane, a former FBI agent recently named to the board, was at least temporarily ousted Thursday in one of a series of federal court actions which reshuffled the membership.

Lawrence T. Smith, New York attorney whom McShane had replaced, was reinstated, and William E. Bufalino, a Detroit Teamsters official and pal of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, was named another monitor.

The changes led to reports from associates of Martin F. O'Donoghue, the third monitor and chairman of the group, that O'Donoghue may quit in despair. O'Donoghue reportedly left town for a long weekend rest to decide his future course.

O'Donoghue is the chief sponsor of a court action seeking Hoffa's removal from union office. Bufalino, upon being sworn in as a monitor, said he intended to try to get the charges against Hoffa quashed and a union convention authorized quickly to end the whole monitor setup.

"And we were just getting rolling," McShane said.

The former FBI agent, who had been investigating Hoffa activities for the government for the past several years, said he recently had launched a series of hearings for the monitors in New York and New England.

McShane said the secretary-treasurer of the New Bedford, Mass., Teamsters Local Seraphine Jason, 39, and Edward Quirk, president of Providence, R.I., Local 251 quit their union jobs just ahead of scheduled hearings.

He said a hearing due to be held in New York Monday into activities of John O'Rourke, union boss over that area, probably will have to be called off now.

DeSapio Tells Kennedy He'll Get Substantial N. Y. Help

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts rides high in the esteem of powerful New York party leaders today, and has solid evidence of something more concrete—their votes at the Democratic presidential nominating convention in July.

He interrupted campaigning for the May 17 Maryland primary Thursday to fly to Manhattan and talk with National Committeeman Carmine DeSapio and others who have a lot to say about how New York's 114 convention votes will go.

Later Kennedy told newsmen DeSapio assured him he has strong support there. DeSapio broke in to say "he has substantial support in the state of New York. Substantial means more than a majority." The state party picks convention delegates June 7.

A Kennedy aide in Maryland said, "We've got New York and New Jersey sewed up. We're looking very good there, especially since West Virginia."

In Trenton, N.J., New Jersey's Gov. Robert B. Meyner said Kennedy's West Virginia victory last Tuesday enhances his chances for the nomination.

But Meyner added "I still think the convention is going to have to determine the candidate." Meyner controls the state's 41 votes as a favorite son candidate. Reportedly there is strong sentiment among delegates to go for Kennedy on the second ballot.

In another development, Wisconsin's attorney general ruled the state's 20 delegate votes pledged to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota now are freed from their pledge by Humphrey's withdrawal as a presidential aspirant.

But Frank L. Nikolay, chairman of the delegation, said "it's my opinion that we will have to have a written release from Humphrey." Most of the Humphrey delegates, who control 10 votes say they still are undecided. Kennedy won 20 convention votes in Wisconsin.

Three Are on List For Inspector Job

An eligibility list of three names for the position of city building inspector, was announced today by John F. Fitzgerald, secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

Joseph F. Smith, of 48 Hoffman Street, who has held the position, provisionally, topped the list with a rating of 95 per cent.

The other two are: John F. Coffey, of 23 Coffey Place, 80 per cent, and Joseph S. Babiarz, 41 Railroad Avenue, 79 per cent. Coffey's rating included five veteran's credits.

Electra Crashes Are Blamed on Wing Flutter

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Lockheed Aircraft engineers say two Electra turboprop plane crashes that killed 97 persons were caused by violent wing flutter.

In both crashes, in Indiana and Texas, the Electras lost wings while flying in normal weather. Lockheed's disclosure was made Thursday in a closed meeting of pilots who fly the Electras and airline executives who buy the planes. A public explanation was given in a press release.

"One of the most profound engineering problems that has confronted the company in three decades of airplane building," said the statement about the exhaustive investigation.

Engineers said that at speeds above 300 miles an hour damage or weakness showed up in the outboard engine area of the wing. Its cause was undetermined, but may have been a hard landing. This, teaming with external forces created by high speed or turbulence, caused abnormal flutter, the explanation said. Wings flapped up and down at three cycles per second and the snapping point could have been reached within 30 seconds after the flutter started.

A Northwest Airlines Electra that crashed March 17 near Tell City, Ind., killing 63, lost a wing during a downward flap. A Braniff Airways Electra that crashed last Sept. 29 near Buffalo City, Tex., killing 34, lost a wing on the upward cycle.

After the Tell City crash the FAA ordered the Electra's top speed restricted to 316 mph, and later to 259 at normal operating altitude. It directed an exhaustive investigation. Lockheed, with 136 Electras in service in four continents, set 250 engineers and technicians at work seeking causes.

An FAA spokesman said in Washington the Lockheed study will be reviewed. He declined to comment on a question of whether the agency will permit the Electras to continue to fly in the light of the Lockheed report.

Lockheed has proposed modifications to restore the Electra to its original speed and performance—at a cost of 25 million dollars. A spokesman said the matter of who bears the cost will be negotiated between the firm and the lines flying Electras.

Island Men Are Serious; Hurt in Bridge Plunge

Two young Long Island men who were injured last Saturday evening when their car plunged off the Route 28 bridge over Esopus creek were reported "apparently serious" at Kingston Hospital today.

They are: Joseph Rauch, 18, Bayside, driver of the 1956 sedan, and Richard Bendix, 21, Flushing. Both suffered severe head injuries, it was reported at the time.

Tuesday Meeting Slated on Dietz Land for School

Members of the education board and the Common Council's special committee dealing with transfer of Dietz Stadium land for a junior high school site are due to meet Tuesday night to discuss details pertinent to the transaction, it was learned today.

It is expected that both Corporation Counsel William A. Kelly and Attorney Andrew J. Cooke Jr., representing the board, will attend. Alderman Francis R. Koenig (D), Ninth Ward, who has advocated sprinkler systems in all schools, is also expected to attend.

The council committee is headed by Alderman James K. Ryan (D), 10th Ward, council majority leader, Council President Harold L. Kaye, is also a member.

and Proverbs to men and women in the Armed Forces; to nurses, to school children in the fifth through 12th grades; to prisons and to foreign countries in many languages. To date the Gideons have placed over 43,000,000 copies of Bibles and Testaments in places where men and women, boys and girls may have an opportunity to read them.

In conjunction with its program to place the Scriptures in every hotel and motel in the country, the Catskill Camp has completed the program on schedule and has placed over 800 Bibles in the area. To date more than 632,000 Hospital Testaments composed of the New Testament with the Psalms, have been distributed in institutions throughout the country.

Auxiliary Has Vital Role
The Ladies Auxiliary also plays an important role in the Gideon ministry. Most outstanding among its accomplishments is the distribution of over 1,406,000 copies of white New Testaments to registered and domestic nurses and nurses' aides.

In its ministry to the young people of the nation, the Gideons have distributed Youth Testaments numbering over 15,877,000 to school children.

Serving as an extended, non-sectarian arm of the church, Gideons International is carrying out a broad ministry which no single denomination could undertake. The fact that they are interdenominational gives them access to almost all institutions.

They give freely of their time and money and enjoy the good will of the public. Their cause is liberally supported by the church.

The Gideons are the largest buyers of Bibles and Testaments in the world. Scriptures are bought with their own contributions together with the free-will contributions of Christian people of many different denominations.

Temple Emanuel parents and teachers will hold their final meeting for the school season on Monday, at 8:30 p. m. at the Temple social hall.

The slate of new officers will be presented and election will take place. The teachers of the Religious School will give a progress report and a review of the highlights of the year. At this meeting plans will be formulated for the ensuing school year. All parents are urged to attend since this is a most important meeting.

are noted that the state is burdened with some 800 which are geographically widespread, and can provide only minimum service.

Civil service commissions in counties or municipalities, it is indicated, because they are physically close to school districts involved, can provide better service.

May Need Regular Secretary
Expansion of the local commission's facilities will be involved and will be discussed, among other problems, with the education board, McDonald said.

The present budget is inadequate for handling new details resulting from the change, and the commission might be required to hire a full-time secretary.

It is also expected that communities outside of the city will be required to contribute to the commission's annual budget.

Teaching personnel, generally under the tenure system of the educational law, is not involved in the change.

Woerner Asking

order "to adequately and accurately represent my ward. I would like residents (of the ward) to please indicate to me by post card what their feelings are on this matter."

The aldermen have already voted twice for measures favoring transfer of the site. A 9-3 vote, with an alderman absent, favored transfer of the land. That was on March 1, and on March 15 a required home rule measure was adopted 11-2.

Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D), Third Ward, and William G. Davis (D-L), 13th Ward, have been consistently against the proposal. Joseph Tomaszewski (D), Sixth Ward, opposed the transfer in the March 1 vote, but went along on the home rule vote March 15.

City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan in a recently submitted detailed report to fix the value of the land, estimated its cost at $19,524, and City Assessor James D. Devine, felt that with considerations the cost could be fixed at $14,000.

Aid Bill Vetted

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today vetoed the 251-million-dollar depressed areas bill.

The Democratic-sponsored bill would have set up a program of federal loans and grants to help communities with economic problems such as mining towns or abandoned railroad centers. There appeared to be little chance the veto—Eisenhower's 161st—could be overridden.

50 Negroes Who Refused To Leave Eatery Arrested

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first mass arrests in Chattanooga, Tenn., since the riots in February sent 50 hynning young Negroes off to jail, two of them dripping wet from a hose.

They were arrested Thursday during a demonstration in the downtown Kress store. Manager Robert V. Thacker said when they refused to leave the white lunch counter he threatened to turn a water hose on them.

All but two left, he said, and "we hosed them (the two) down real good." The others then returned and police arrested them on charges of disorderly conduct and loitering. Thirty-two juveniles were sent to a detention home, and others, jailed under $100 bond each, face preliminary hearing in City Court.

At Nashville, Tenn., however, Negroes were served without incident at lunch counters for the third day in a row.

But Conservation Commissioner Brents McBride, whose department administers hotel and restaurant regulations, asked Atty. Gen. George McCannless if the integration of six Nashville lunch counters violated state regulations requiring segregated eating facilities. The attorney general's office declined comment pending study of the law.

The executive secretary of the South Carolina NAACP told the Negro Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina at Greenville that there have been 41 Negro student demonstrations for civil rights in the state and more are to come. The NAACP official, the Rev. I. Dequincy Newman of Columbia, said demonstrations the past three months involved 4,037 students. A total of 586 have been arrested, he said, and of the number 492 already have been convicted and have appealed.

In Atlanta Negroes abandoned plans to appeal a federal court ruling delaying desegregation in the city's public schools for a year. An attorney said the decision followed a judge's assurance implementation of the order was not contingent on legislative approval.

Federal Judge Frank A. Hooper has ordered the Atlanta Board of Education's grade-a-year pupil placement plan to go into effect May 1, 1961.

County Will Buy Cornell Building

the heating plant in the basement of the present building."

"At the last meeting between your committee and the architect, there was some question as to whether the building as proposed would be large enough to house all of the County offices which need new quarters. The architect kindly consented to talk to each of the department heads for the purpose of ascertaining their actual needs and determining whether or not an additional floor should be added to the proposed four-story building. He is to notify your committee when this information is received and a future conference between the architect and your committee will be held prior to the next regular meeting of the Board.

Committee Optimistic
"In the event that the proposed location is acceptable to this Board, it will not be necessary to remove any of the buildings presently used for County offices until the new building is completed and ready for occupancy. Members of the Board who are not on the committee are required to advise committee members of their opinion concerning the proposed location.

"The preliminary talks with the architect and sketches presented by him, make your committee feel optimistic for an early solution of the problem of housing the County offices and we hope to be able to present this Board with definite recommendations for action with respect to this new proposal."

The Melnik resolution for purchase of the Cornell Building calls for payment out of the Contingent Fund.

Martin Would Lease Building
Supervisor James Martin (R), 12th Ward, opposed the purchase on the grounds there was no estimate of the cost for converting the building to county use. He said the people of the county knew the "crying need" for a county building, and there had been a "sensational growth" among the supervisors in that direction. Martin said he opposed purchase of the Cornell Building, which he said would become a "white elephant" on the county's hands after a new county building is erected. Martin said he would not oppose leasing that, or some suitable building. He referred to inadequate parking facilities at the site and said a new county building was in the imminent future and anything but leasing temporary quarters at this time was not justified. He abstained from voting.

Supporting his resolution Supervisor Melnik said the structure had 15,000 square feet of floor space, there were vaults on all floors, and a $25,000 expenditure would be a less burden on taxpayers than $2½ millions for a new building.

Melnik said the first floor of the building was now rented with an income of $3,000 a year.

Wouldn't Use Fund
Several others "explained" their vote, among them being former Chairman Charles Relyea who opposed the expenditure unless the sponsor came up "with another plan for financing." Relyea said the Contingency Fund was $50,000 and in the event of a flood or other disaster there would be insufficient money available if $25,000 was used for the purchase.

Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger (R), Rochester, opposed on the grounds the board was "close to a new county building" and there had been no adequate investigation as to the cost of putting the Cornell building in shape for county use. Others expressed the same reason for opposition. Supervisor Peter William (R) Saugerties, called the plan "assanine" without some knowledge of the cost for alterations.

School Sprinklers Discussed
A resolution by Supervisor James T. McCordie (D), ninth ward, calling for recommendation that all schools in Ulster County be provided with fire sprinklers, met opposition on the grounds the board had no power in school matters, that trustees of individuals districts knew needs better than the board of supervisors and that not all schools had sprinklers. "I get mixed up in school matters," McCordie called attention to the fact that even the newer buildings were not "entirely fire resistant" and he said the board should not oppose anything relating to the safety of the school children.

Supervisor Charles Relyea, (R), Hurley said he was not opposed to sprinklers "but who are we to say what schools" need them. He said the board should not inject politics in school matters, but let the trustees run the school.

Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger (R), Rochester, also objected to "all schools" being included and said the State Education department approved school plans and he felt the resolution was "unnecessary."

Seeking Industrial Growth
A resolution calling for appointment of a five-man Industrial Improvement Commission to study local industrial conditions and assist in bringing new industry to the area, was moved by Supervisor James T. McCordie (D), Ninth Ward.

McCordie called attention to the "low wage" in Ulster County and the need for additional industrial growth. He suggested a five-man commission, three members to be from the majority party and two from the minority party. The resolution was carried 16 to 14, with two supervisors abstaining.

Supervisor George Majestic, presenting copies of Industrial Development Surveys from Sullivan and Orange Counties, said the resolution would not cost the taxpayers nothing. Figures to support the resolution stated the average wage in the state was $2,086 per capita while Ulster County wage was $1,836.

In the Mid-Hudson seven county area, Ulster County stands sixth and has never been better than in fifth place. Kingston is "second largest" in unemployment in the Hudson Valley according to State Department of Commerce figures, McCordie said.

Objectors to the resolution cited the work being done by local Chambers of Commerce and Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R), Shawangunk, pointed to the location of three new industries in his area in recent months as a result of local action in his town.

Two Historians Named
On motion of Supervisor John J. Gaffney (D) of Lloyd, Ira V. D. Warren of Kingston was named county historian and Kenneth Hasbrouck of Town of Shawangunk was named assistant historian. They succeeded the late Edward Lawrence Merritt who died at his home, 36 Warren street, February 13, last.

A resolution by Supervisor Charles Relyea, (R), Hurley, expressing the board's feeling of deep loss "of a true public servant and outstanding civic personality," was unanimously approved. Mr. Merritt was county historian at the time of his death. The resolution stated Mr. Merritt had served his city and county "ably and efficiently in several public offices," including city treasurer under Mayor Walter P. Crane; postmaster of City of Kingston and as county historian for which he received no compensation.

Kingston Cablevision, Inc., was given authority to string cable over the John Street parking lot.

The Board of Elections notified the supervisors it would not be necessary to hold the 1960 Primary since there was no contest, thereby saving the county some $8,000 and the towns and City of Kingston additional expense for poll workers, a total estimated at over $10,000.

Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R), Shawangunk, reported for the committee studying purchase of the Van Kleec property on the East Chester bypass. He said the legal aspect was being cleared relating to the IBM lease and said his committee would know by Friday as to other details for acquiring the property for county garage purposes.

The board authorized County Treasurer Fred DuBois to conduct a public sale of property to be sold for unpaid taxes. There are approximately 100 properties involved.

Supervisor George Majestic (D), Gardiner asked that a written report by the Board of Elections be filed in regard to the failure to hold a Primary election. He alleged there was apparently a conflict over instructed delegates "for supreme court judge." Every opportunity should be given the people to express themselves at the polls, he said.

Prior to adjournment Supervisor Terwilliger (R) Rochester, suggested the sponsors of the resolution present an estimate of the cost for conversion of the building to county use. He also asked what happened to the proposal to buy the "Homeseekers"

Survey Planned To Find Dump for Radioactive Waste

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The State Office of Atomic Developments has ordered a preliminary survey to determine the best sites for disposal of radioactive wastes.

The study will be made by the Vitro Engineering Co. of New York City, which will report to the state agency by June 10. The company's recommendations will be studied further, to determine which sites would be the safest and most practical.

Oliver Townsend, director of the atomic development office, said Thursday he hoped the location of suitable sites would attract to the state private companies engaged in reprocessing nuclear fuels. These fuels are used in atomic plants for production of electricity.

Townsend previously indicated in a report that underground salt beds along the Southern Tier might be safe areas for disposing of waste from the reprocessing. However, no decisions have been made on any general area.

Keating Urges State to Exert Their Own Rights

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) said today state governments have not been firm enough in asserting their jurisdictional rights.

"For a subsidy they have all too often sold themselves down the Potomac," he declared in an address before the Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System, Inc.

"On the other hand," Keating added, "the federal government, having pre-empted the best sources of tax revenue, has left the states little choice."

"In giving attention, as we are today, to the role of the federal government in our society, we must not ignore the role of state governments and their place in the federal system."

Keating said that if a nation is to persevere in a Democracy every citizen can and must think about and participate actively in the process of governing.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 13, 1960

DRIVING ON RURAL ROADS

This is apple blossom time in our area and the beauty of the apple trees with their pink buds and white petals attracts many visitors to farms located on rural roads which wind through picturesque countryside.

Apple blossom time is a beautiful setting, but it can be a booby trap to the driver who is accustomed to ribbon-straight driving at 60 miles an hour. Driving on a secondary rural road there could loom up at the very next curve a two-foot chuck-hole, a slow-moving tractor, a flock of chickens, or someone coming out of a side lane. Also the climbing, winding road may quit climbing and start descending right around the next curve.

There is only one way to drive on rural roads and that is as if you were blazing a new trail. Expect any hazard. Chances are you won't be disappointed.

Because almost three times as many persons are killed each year in rural traffic accidents as in urban areas, the National Safety Council offers the following tips on rural motoring:

Slow down right away when you reach gravel or dirt roads. And don't let country blacktop fool you—you may hit a hole or a bump and land in a ditch.

Always stay on the right side of the road on country curves—and on city curves, too.

When going up a hill, slow down, keep to the right and honk your horn to warn another car that might be in the middle of the road on the other side of the hill.

Watch out for farm vehicles darting out from driveways. Start slowing down the minute you see such a vehicle in your lane ahead.

Slow down when approaching a bridge—many are too narrow for two cars at the same time. If a car approaches a bridge the same time you do, don't try to beat it across. Stop and wait until it crosses. You'll live longer!

Come to a dead stop at intersections. The few existing stop signs often are overgrown with weeds.

Watch for sudden changes in the road surface. One moment you may be on blacktop, the next moment skidding in loose gravel.

Stop when a school bus stops ahead of you and proceed again only after it's in motion.

Watch out for pedestrians and bicyclists. And when you enter a small town, watch out for children playing along the roadside.

A coffee surplus may force price reduction. The industry might advocate add-a-cup coffee breaks.

FARM SAFETY

Farming has more deaths than any other major industry, according to the National Safety Council. In an effort to focus nationwide attention on the farm safety problem, President Eisenhower has proclaimed the week of July 24-30 as National Farm Safety Week.

Farm accidents cost the nation one and one-quarter billion dollars each year. They indirectly affect the nation's entire population. The high death rate and enormous drain on our pocketbooks are reasons why we believe farm safety is for everyone the whole year round.

Many do not realize the large role farming plays in the national economy. The American motorist, for instance, is well aware of the enormous quantities of petroleum products consumed in his various comings and goings. But he may not be aware that the petroleum industry's biggest customer is actually the American farmer. Or consider the use of machinery. Even the giant steel industry's investment in machines is but one-half that of modern, mechanized agriculture.

The man of the house is glad to relinquish the title at house-cleaning time.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
THE SUMMIT CONFERENCE

It is beginning to appear that Nikita Khrushchev wants to call off the Summit Conference or President Eisenhower's visit to Soviet Russia or both. The Summit Conference can now amount to nothing. Too much is occurring before the conference to make it more than a meeting of an estranged husband and wife in a lawyer's office.

The bloom has withered.
The visit of President Eisenhower to Russia in June is something else. There can be no question that President Eisenhower ordinarily would bring cheer and good will to the Russian people. He has been blessed with a charming personality which quickly wins friends. Khrushchev is doing everything conceivable to break down the will of the Russian people to receive Eisenhower with enthusiasm. He may be afraid of the political consequences of such a reception. It may no longer suit his purposes to have it happen. Khrushchev is now engaged in a vast enterprise of anti-Americanism in Latin America, the center of which is presently Cuba. He may not want this enterprise interrupted even by the externals of friendship.

Khrushchev has a particular hatred for Vice President Nixon who bowed him over in a free debate in public in Moscow. Khrushchev can give pretty insulting talk but he cannot take any back-talk. This was early learned by Malenkov, Molotov and Kaganovich. He chose the opening of the American Fair to give Nixon a bad time. With the skill of a trained debater, Nixon turned the tables and to use an old phrase, made a monkey out of Khrushchev. For this reason, Khrushchev hates Nixon and has made his hatred plain for all to see. But there have been no prior indications that he also disliked Eisenhower or feared him. In fact, the spirit of Camp David was a Khrushchev slogan for a while. Khrushchev's present conduct is making it increasingly difficult for President Eisenhower to go to Russia and the efforts are so persistent and so irritating that they are becoming unmistakable and sharply antagonistic.

Khrushchev's game apparently is to get Eisenhower to decline to go. Then the Russian will enter upon a world-wide denunciation of Eisenhower and the United States. If President Eisenhower sits tight, moves according to schedule, Khrushchev may find himself in the embarrassing position of being forced to tell Eisenhower that he does not want him to come. Such a communication, after the reception that Khrushchev received in this country, would be an intolerable insult. It might result in breaking off relations. It would if there were any pride left in the State Department.

This much is clear: The honeymoon engineered by Cyrus Eaton, Robert Dowling, Eric Johnston and other businessmen is over. The United States has consistently appeased Khrushchev, not to gain time, but with the pacifistic objective of avoiding war. It is not possible to cringe more or to crawl more or to take many more insults. The rejection of Eisenhower's visit could be the last straw.

What is not clear is what circumstances inside Soviet Russia are forcing Khrushchev to reorganize the political forces in his country. He has taken one of his ablest men out of the government and elevated him to the direction of the Communist Party. This elevation of Erol Kozlov would indicate that there is more trouble in Russia than we know. If the party is strong, under the Soviet system, the government will take care of itself. Stalin trusted no one with power in the party. Khrushchev apparently finds that the load is too heavy to carry and has to have assistance of younger men whose blood pressure is not too high.

But what is the load that has become too heavy? Is it internal? Has a generation which never knew the Revolution been asking too many questions? No one who is under 43 years of age knew the Revolution. A man of 50 was seven years old when the Revolution occurred. Few men of the Revolution are alive. Finally old Voroshilov, the last of the heroes, has retired from the government. The new masters may be more efficient than the old ones but they do not have the aura of heroism; they have not been in exile or in Siberia. They are parvenus.

Is this the trouble that has given Khrushchev the jitters about Eisenhower's visit?

Reports Allergies to Doctor;
He Knows Forms of Relief

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Four reasons why you should report details of your allergy investigations to your doctor:
He'll be able to recommend measures to relieve the allergic reaction.

He may be able to desensitize you to the substance or allergen that's responsible for your troubles.

He'll probably discover you have other sensitivities because, like rotten apples in a barrel, there are always more than one, and It'll be warned against prescribing or injecting drugs allergens that frequently provoke allergic reactions.

Such substances as serums, sulfa drugs, penicillin, pain killers, headache and cold remedies, tranquilizers, sedatives, sleeping medicines, blood pressure depressants, iodides and antiepileptics.

Here, in greater detail, are some of the measures he may take:

Provide you with an anti-histamine preparation to use locally or swallow. This, you'll recognize from what you learned previously in this discussion, is for temporary relief. No anti-histamine is curative.

But you'll be grateful for them nonetheless if they relieve an attack of itching hives (urticaria), tongue or hive (angio-neurotic edema) of a long or throat that's shutting off your windpipe, or loosen constricting bronchial muscles during an asthmatic seizure.

Get rid of the offending allergen by killing off streptococci if you're suffering from rheumatic fever, rheumatic valvular disease of the heart or certain types of kidney trouble (nephritis or nephrosis).

Get rid of the tubercle bacillus if your trouble is a combination of tuberculous infection and of hypersensitivity to the villain that causes the White Plague.

Densitize you with tablets (Aqua Ivy) or injections if you've had poison ivy.

Densitize you with injections if you have hay fever.

Recommend surgery for infected tonsils or sinuses if your asthmatic attacks seem related to bacterial invasions of these structures. Maybe make a vaccine of a suspicious bug that's grown out of cultures taken in the operating room and attempting to desensitize you by a course of vaccine injections.

Give you a list of foods that contain the allergen to which you're sensitive; prepared dishes made with eggs or cow's milk or wheat to which you're sensitive; Like goat's milk for cow's milk. Nonallergic cosmetics for those containing potential allergens. Cotton goods for those made with synthetic fibers and fabrics. Kapok pillows for those stuffed with animal feathers.

For the moment, that's all I can tell you about these strange reactions and their prevention and treatment. Later I plan to write on another type of allergic reaction called tuberculin-like although it has nothing to do with tuberculous infections.

'On Your Way Out Drop These in the Mail'

Washington News

By PETER EDSON

ARDEN HOUSE, Harriman, N. Y. — (NEA) — American higher education is taking first steps toward securing more federal financial aid.

Private college and university officials are still scared of it; state educators consider it necessary for survival of other institutions.

This situation emerged from the 17th American Assembly Meeting, under direction of Dr. Henry M. Wriston, former Brown University president who is now also chairman of President Eisenhower's new commission on national goals.

Sixty educators from all over the country met here for three days to consider the problems of the federal government and higher education.

Included in the group were 19 college presidents, 13 businessmen and bankers who are private college trustees, 8 government education officials, 5 educational association spokesmen, 4 publishers and broadcasters, 6 foundation executives, 3 labor leaders and 2 members of Congress.

THE GROUP DOES NOT profess to speak for all U. S. colleges and universities. But the American Assembly carries such prestige that its findings will receive wide endorsement.

The crisis faced by U. S. higher education is that the number of students is expected to double in the next 10 years, from three million to six million. In the same period the costs of higher education are expected to triple, from 3 1/2 billion dollars a year to over 10 billion. The cost of new educational facilities needed is estimated at another 20 billion.

What the American Assembly comes up with to meet this situation is a series of far-reaching recommendations:

The government should pay the full costs of services it buys from colleges and universities, including research and ROTC programs.

The student loan program in the National Defense Education Act should be expanded. The loyalty oath is approved by inference, but the disclaimer affidavit attached to it is condemned.

Government loans for college dormitories should be continued, "perhaps on a larger scale."

National Science Foundation and National Institutes of Health grants for undergraduate research are endorsed.

Beyond these four recommendations, the Assembly proceeds with caution, feeling its way.

Nothing is apt to come of all this in Congress this year. But the lines have been laid down for a new push to get more federal money for higher education.

The federal government now contributes over one billion dollars a year toward higher education, through some 50 unrelated programs.

One of the surprises of the Assembly was that spokesmen for some of the traditional opponents to all forms of federal aid to education have now been brought round to seeing its need.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 13 — The days of rugged individualism have passed. Henry Ford was noted for it. He always wanted to "go alone, across lots and on foot." He had little use for committees or associations. For many years he would not join the National Automobile Manufacturers Association; he and others were in a position to go it alone, because they had some original ideas and were patient enough to work them.

I Believe In Cooperation

The story of advancing civilization, however, is a record of man's willingness to cooperate. The Trade Association Directory, prepared by the U. S. Department of Commerce, shows that there are 3,000 regional and 7,000 local associations of businessmen. With these are affiliated 12,000 trade associations, 5,000 local Chambers of Commerce, and 30,000 businessmen's luncheon clubs. It seems as if everyone is a "joiner," and many join several business groups. Yet even the above figures do not cover the many purely social, church, labor and farm fraternal groups. As for employees' organizations, there are 200 national and about 80,000 local unions.

There has been much fun poked at the "Organizational Man," meaning a lower-echelon executive in big business corporations. But practically every man and many women are members of organized voluntary groups. In our free U. S., these members retain a very large degree of independence; and, except in cartels and some labor unions, individuals are not coerced or regimented or herded. On the whole, ours is a nation of free individuals—though not as free as were our pioneer fathers.

Small Businessmen

Freedom to organize is one of our basic American freedoms. Special and new interests keep arising in our world of rapid changes; one new bustling area is that of Small Business, which since 1938 has been self-organized solely and specifically to protect the legitimate interests of independent small and medium-sized business people. The largest of these Small Business Organizations is the National Federation of Independent Business.

Kennedy-Nixon Race Seen, With Republican Victor

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Analysis of traditional habits in politics and the habits of thought of organization leaders tells far more about who is going to be nominated at a political convention than do polls or primary elections.

Based on just an analysis, this correspondent wrote on March 7, just before the New Hampshire primary, that Sen. Kennedy "is likely to win the Democratic nomination" and that, "if he is blocked the compromise candidate will be Adlai Stevenson."

On April 7, after the Wisconsin primary, this writer said in these dispatches:

"The Wisconsin primary, by all the rules of politics, should mean that Sen. Kennedy will be regarded as the front-runner from now on. This means that the other candidates will tend to combine against him. There are other primary contests, to be sure, but Sen. Kennedy will gain ground in all of them, as he has the organization and the finances back of him to win the necessary delegate strength."

What is really meant by "the organization and the finances"? Certainly there is not the slightest basis for any implication that votes are bought. Nor is it to be assumed that the word "organization" means the regular party machinery. In pre-convention campaigns, each candidate develops his own organization and, if he has money enough, he will engage precinct workers everywhere to get voters to the polls, transporting them in autos when necessary. More important still, the organization will know where to find the indifferent voters who can be persuaded by friends to vote for the candidate such friends favor.

Those "organization" workers carry sample ballots printed in advance, and in a state like West Virginia, where there are few precincts with voting machines, it means that the citizen takes the sample ballot into the voting booth and is not bewildered when confronted with a long list of state and local candidates. He is enabled to go right to the spot on the ballot and put his mark down.

This is an old pattern in American politics, and it takes a lot of money to pay for a big organization that really gets out the vote. The total Kennedy vote in West Virginia was about 220,000, which is less than half of the Democratic vote cast for Adlai Stevenson in 1952, when he carried the state against Gen. Eisenhower. It isn't difficult to line up a minority bloc in any state primary if you have the money and the organization. The Kennedy forces can do it hereafter in every primary, and they will confront the Democratic national convention with the legitimate query: "Since we have won most of the primaries, how can you turn us down?"

Religion Issue Gone

This correspondent believes that the West Virginia primary result not only has helped Sen. Kennedy toward the Democratic nomination but actually has helped toward the election of Vice President Nixon, who is certain to be the Republican nominee.

Once the so-called "religious issue" is out of the way—and it now will be so viewed by many politicians because West Virginia has a relatively small number of Catholics in its voting population—the tendency will be to appraise the Massachusetts Senator on his merits.

The Republican strategists, for instance, don't want to see the "religious issue" raised either. They would rather go before the country with the argument that, in these fateful times, "you don't elect a boy to be President of the United States."

The biggest point the Republicans think they will have in their favor is that Vice President Nixon is trained in and intimately familiar with the tasks of the White House and that Sen. Kennedy would have to start from scratch to learn how to function in the Presidency.

But doesn't the voting in the primaries, it will be asked, indicate that Sen. Kennedy is popular and a good vote-getter? As against a less colorful and less known candidate, such as Sen. Humphrey, it has not been difficult for Sen. Kennedy to win the primaries thus far. But the real reason why the Massachusetts Senator upset so many observers who were forecasting the outcome of the West Virginia primaries is that they paid more attention to hit-or-miss polls than to two key factors—"the organization and the finances."

In a national election "the organization and the finances" tend to be balanced as between the parties. As of today, it seems very likely that the nation's voters will have to choose between Kennedy and Nixon next November. This writer believes that—on the basis of, first, satisfactory economic conditions in the major part of the country next autumn, and, second, the argument as to the executive experience that the Republican nominee will offer to the public, and, third, the active support of President Eisenhower—the Republicans will win a decisive victory. Jacoby Cites Overruff Rule

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Remember that general rule I gave yesterday about when not to overruff? It is important enough to repeat: "Whenever you hold three or more trumps to the ace or king, or four or more to the queen or jack, you should usually refuse to use your honor to overruff."

If South had jumped right to four spades over the opening club bid he would probably have escaped, without being doubled. As it was, he gave East a chance to show that he held a big hand and West doubled.

Clubs were opened and continued. South ruffed the third lead with the queen and instead of making the "No better place for it" play West discarded, saving his king for later use.

South led his singleton heart to dummy's ace and tried the spade finesse. Now West took his king. There was no reason to hold it back this time.

A diamond put East in the lead, and out came a fourth club. If South ruffed low West would overruff. If South ruffed high

Princeton Head To Get Degree, Address Regents

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—President Robert F. Goheen of Princeton University will be awarded an honorary degree and will be principal speaker at the 90th convocation of the State Board of Regents on Thursday.

The convocation will be held in connection with the dedication of a five-million-dollar addition to the main building of the State Education Department.

The Regents also will present honorary degrees to Dr. Detlev W. Bronk of New York City, president of the Rockefeller Institute and of the National Academy of Sciences, and Dr. Lewis A. Wilson of Albany, retired commissioner of the State Education Department.

Goheen, who will be awarded a doctor of laws degree, will speak on "World Dimensions for American Education."

Wilson also will be awarded a degree of doctor of laws and Bronk, a doctor of science degree.

The last recipients of honorary degrees from the Board of Regents were former Presidents Herbert Hoover and Harry S. Truman. They were honored at a 1958 convocation marking the 175th anniversary of the board, which administers education in the state.

The Regents have awarded a total of 124 honorary degrees. Chancellor John F. Brosnan of the Board of Regents will preside at next week's convocation. Education Commissioner James A. Allen Jr. will award the honorary degrees.

The ceremonies will follow dedication of the new building.

Russian Premier Khrushchev's explosive reaction to the May Day intrusion into his country of the spy plane highlights his distaste of the U. S.-operated bases that virtually ring his country. Major Plans for Aged Medical Care Reviewed

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—A batch of proposals to provide some kind of medical care for the 16 million people over 65—or, at least, for some of them—has been dumped on Congress.

If any old-age health bill ever gets through Congress this year it probably will not be exactly the same as any of those now talked about. But there have been four major proposals:

Two Are Voluntary

One by the Eisenhower administration, and the others by Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-R.I.), Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.), and Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.). The Eisenhower and Javits bills have this much in common: They'd be voluntary.

They'd be paid in part by the individuals who chose to buy into the program, in part by the federal government, in part by the states. They would take time to set up, with each state deciding when and if. Some states might not participate.

The Forand and McNamara bills would be compulsory to the extent that they'd be paid for out of Social Security funds, with a slight boost—one-quarter of one per cent on the first $4,800 of income—in the tax now being paid equally by employees and employers.

Ike's Proposal

The Eisenhower proposal: It would, theoretically, be open to 12½ million people. Those with incomes of $2,500 a year (if single) or $3,800 (if married) would be excluded. But—and it's a big but—

The cost: $24 a year from each person taking part, (whether or not he got sick), plus the first $250 of his year's medical bill (for the first $400 for a couple), plus 20 per cent of all costs over $250 or $400. The federal government and the states, sharing about equally, would pay the rest.

The benefits: Hospitalization for 180 days; or 365 days in a nursing home; or 365 days of home health services; payment to doctors; dental services; and up to $350 for drugs.

You'd have to have a major or prolonged illness to come out ahead on this one.

Proposal of Javits

The Javits bill: Open to all 16 million people over 65 and, if some had husbands or wives under 65, it would be open to them, too.

The cost: No charge to those with under $500 income; 50 cents a month or $6 a year for those between $500 and $1,000; a sliding charge upwards for those with incomes up to $3,600; and $13 a month, or $165 a year, for those with income over $3,600.

The Javits people figure the average medical bill of a person over 65 is $150 a year. So, under this program, the government would assist states up to that $150 average.

The benefits: Each state would decide what benefits to provide, so long as one-third of all the costs were for doctors' fees for treatment at home or in the office.

Forand's Bill

The Forand bill: About 13½ million people would be eligible. It would be limited to those already getting a Social Security pension or eligible to receive it. It would be run by the federal government, not the states since the Social Security tax is a federal one.

The people already on Social Security pension would not, of course, be taxed although they'd be the ones getting the benefits. But the under-65 people, who'd be paying the tax, would become eligible as they reached 65.

Benefits: Hospitalization for 60 days, with all costs paid; 120 days in a nursing home; or two days of each unused hospital day. There would be full pay for surgery but not for medical doctors. There'd be no home health services.

Laboratory and X-ray services would be free only for people confined to a hospital. Outpatients wouldn't get them.

McNamara Offering

The McNamara bill: The cost: The payment for this program would be the same as under the Forand bill — a boost in Social Security tax — and the program would be run by the government.

Benefits: It would pay no doctors' bills but would provide 90 days' hospitalization a year, with all costs paid; 180 days in a nursing home, or two days there for each unused hospital day.

It would provide 240 home health services a year, such as home-maker services, medical social work. The laboratory and X-ray services would be paid for as provided not only for in-hospital patients but for outpatients, too. All drugs used in the hospital would be paid for.

The estimated total costs of these programs are sometimes sharply disputed, but sponsors use these figures: Eisenhower's — $1,200,000,000; Javits Plan — the same; Forand bill — $1,100,000,000; McNamara bill — $1,100,000,000 the first year and 1½ billion yearly thereafter.

NEW YORK (AP)—Industrials and rails advanced in a continued stock market rally early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active. Key stocks rose from fractions to about a point while more volatile issues produced some wider gains.

Some optimistic forecasts about business and a rise in auto assemblies helped foster a more bullish attitude.

Despite a production cutback by U.S. Steel, the leading steelmaker made respectable gains. Most of the motors, chemicals, rubbers and drugs were up. Rails gained on average.

Oils were unchanged to easy. Aircrafts, nonferrous metals and utilities were mixed.

Gains of about 3 were made by Universal Match and Haver, Varian Associates and Outboard Marine picked up more than a point apiece.

Lockheed, under further publicity as wing flutter was given as the cause of its Electra plane crashes, dropped fractionally.

Gains of about a point were scored by U.S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Jones & Laughlin rose about 2 points.

Up about a point were Ford and Chrysler.

American Cyanamid was up about a point and Eastman Kodak added about 2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon rose 3.43 to 611.30.

Red Air Boss Calls Off Visit to States

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief of the Soviet air force today called off his scheduled visit to the United States.

Chief Air Marshal K. A. Vershinin, who was due to arrive Saturday from Moscow, informed the U.S. Air Force that "it would be more appropriate to postpone my visit to the United States until a more suitable time."

New Repercussion

His decision was clearly another repercussion from the May 1 downing in the Soviet Union of an American spy plane.

In still another development, Norway formally protested to the United States against the spy pilot's reported plan to land his plane in Norway.

The Soviets have asserted that was the pilot's intention, but U.S. officials have cast doubt on that without saying where the pilot did intend to land.

The Soviet air chief and nine other Soviet air officers were to have been guests of U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White.

The Soviet group had been invited to attend a demonstration of U.S. military power at an Armed Forces Day exhibit at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington. Thereafter, they were to have toured several important U.S. Air Force centers.

Return of Courtesy

The invitation was in return for the courtesies extended Gen. Nathan F. Twining, then Air Force chief, on a visit to the Soviet Union in 1956. Twining is now chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A letter from Vershinin, dated May 12, advised White: "As you know in my letter of April 29 this year, I accepted with thanks your invitation to visit the United States as a guest of the U.S. Air Force. In connection with recent events known to you I have considered it necessary to reconsider the question of my journey to the United States and would like to state frankly my reasons therefore."

No U. S. Reply Yet

"I think you will agree with me that at the present time unfavorable circumstances have been created for the successful accomplishment of the purposes envisaged in this exchange of visits of this kind. In this atmosphere it is my opinion that it would be more appropriate to postpone my visit to the United States until a more suitable time. I hope, my dear general, you will correctly understand the motives which guide me in writing this letter to you."

In releasing the letter, the Pentagon said White hoped Vershinin

Bleak Outlook Spy Could Hurt Khrush, Boon to Peiping Leader

TOKYO (AP)—The American spy plane incident may seriously damage Nikita Khrushchev's prestige within the Communist bloc and increase the stature of China's Mao Tse-tung.

The net result—A bleak one for the West—could be an abandonment of Khrushchev's present "soft" line in favor of the hard, unyielding policies of Mao, policies reminiscent of those of the late Joseph Stalin.

Mao's Reaction Cool

The shooting down on May 1 of the American plane on a reconnaissance mission deep inside Soviet territory focuses attention on the 8-month-old controversy between Mao and Khrushchev over the possibilities of negotiating with the United States.

Khrushchev, who made a historic, 13-day visit to the U.S. last September, once described President Eisenhower as a man of peace. He has made clear that he believes a rapprochement is not only possible but necessary.

In a later visit to Peiping, he pointedly told his Chinese hosts he had to be abandoned as a means of settling international disputes.

But Mao's reaction was a cold one. Instead of agreeing, his chief lieutenants increased their attacks on the United States, describing it as the source of "aggressive imperialism" which had to be resisted to the death.

Until the plane intrusion, Khrushchev's policy appeared to dominate the thinking of the Communist camp. And because Khrushchev is the nominal leader of world communism, Mao had to pay lip service to Khrushchev's desires for an end to the cold war.

Showdown Possible

The plane incident has given the Chinese leader a chance to tell his opposite number in the Kremlin for whom he is said to feel a certain amount of contempt—"I told you so."

The intensity of Chinese new attacks on the United States, and by indirectness on Khrushchev, suggests Mao may be preparing for a secret showdown with his Soviet partner.

Mao has repeatedly made it plain he has little faith in the usefulness of the coming summit conference. He has said that the attitude of the West towards Germany and general disarmament foredoomed it to failure.

Rape Slayer Dies In Chair After Unusual Outburst

OSHING, N. Y. (AP)—A 35-year-old rape slayer was electrocuted Thursday night at Sing Sing Prison. It took eight guards to strap him into the lethal chair.

When Pablo Vargas entered the death chamber and spied the chair he cried out: "Please don't" and tried to break away.

Prison authorities said it was the first time in more than 600 executions at Sing Sing since 1891 that a doomed man physically fought at the last moment to prevent his execution.

The Rev. George McKinney, prison chaplain, prayed softly during Vargas' outburst. The condemned man had been in the death house 16 months. Earlier Thursday he was refused a stay of execution by U. S. Supreme Court Justice John M. Harlan.

Vargas was convicted of strangling 16-year-old Lillian Mojica, a New York high school student, during a sex attack in 1958. He tried to burn the body.

Aly Khan Killed

Alfred A. Dean, secretary of the Young Men's Association in Karachi, Pakistan, and an active preacher in the Central Methodist Church in that city, will be guest speaker at the Methodist Church of Phoenix on Sunday, at 6:30 p. m.

Mr. Dean did graduate work at Union Theological Seminary, New York, as one of 25 Ecumenical Fellows chosen from among leaders of overseas churches in Union's program of Advanced Religious Studies. He is presently pursuing studies at New York University.

Recently Mr. Dean completed a survey of social conditions of urban-living Christian families and groups in Pakistan at the request of West Pakistan Christian Council. At the first Asian Conference on Industrial Evangelism, held in Manila in June 1958, Mr. Dean was co-author of its report, "Understanding Christian Responsibility in the Asian Industrial Awakening." Born in West Pakistan, he was educated at Gordon College, Pawalpindi, West Pakistan, and at University of Punjab. He taught high school five years and was an officer in the Pakistan Air Force for another five years.

Other Driver Escapes

Herve Bichaton, driver of the other car, escaped with minor injuries. Police said he told them he could remember nothing about the crash. The French News Agency said reports from the scene indicated Bichaton was on the wrong side of the road, but police gave no confirmation of this.

Bettina, whose real name is Simone Bodin, told investigators Aly—a racing driver in his youth—was not driving fast at the time of the accident.

Rita, Yasmin Shocked

Actress Rita Hayworth, whose marriage to Aly was a glittering Riviera affair in 1949, said in Hollywood that she and her 10-year-old daughter Yasmin were tremendously shocked.

Miss Hayworth and Aly were divorced in 1954.

Aly is survived by two sons—Karim and Amin—by his first marriage to Joan Yarde-Buller Guinness, daughter of an English nobleman. That marriage also ended in divorce.

Karim, 23, is the reigning Aga Khan IV, spiritual leader of the Ismaili sect of Moslems with 20 million followers. He succeeded to the title in 1957 on the death of Aly's father, the Aga Khan III, who passed over his son and named his grandson as his successor.

Prince Amin, 22, is a student at Harvard.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Electronics Stocks Offer Growth and Risk Too

Q "I would like to own some good, young growth stocks, particularly in the electronics field. But I'm afraid of losing my savings. Could you recommend a few completely safe stocks in this field?"

A) It seems to me that you want to have your cake and eat it too. There are many good, young electronics stocks, but frankly I can't think of any that are completely safe investments. In fact, at these relatively high levels, there is market risk in buying any stocks, particularly unseasoned ones. If you can't afford any risk whatsoever, the stock market is definitely not for you, and this is especially true as regards young electronics stocks. If you want to put your money in a completely safe investment, I can think of nothing better than Treasury notes or bonds. Leave the stock market to those who can afford a measure of risk.

Q "I hear a lot of talk about electronics stocks, some good and some bad. How do you feel about the subject? I want to invest in the electronics industry but frankly I'm confused." N.B.

A) I feel very optimistic as to the future prospects of the electronics industry. It is growing at the rate of 15 per cent per year—three times faster than our general economy. New technological breakthrough and space exploration should provide an above-average growth rate for electronics for some time to come. If your aim is capital appreciation over the next five years, I think certain electronics stocks will suit your needs admirably. In the big leagues, I like among others Texas Instruments, International Tel. & Tel., Radio Corporation of America, and Hewlett-Packard. A little of each will give you a balanced investment package in the group.

As a long-term speculation among smaller issues, I like Lab. For Electronics, Sales and earnings are rapidly expanding, and the company is well managed.

Think It Through

E. H. HUTTON
CHRIST OR KHRUSHCHEV?

Visiting the Cathedral at Rouen, France, Khrushchev was moved to say:

"There is much in Christ that is in common with us Communists, but I cannot agree with Him when He says, when you are hit on the right cheek, turn the left cheek. I believe in another principle. If I am hit on the left cheek I hit back on the right cheek so hard that his head might fall off. This is my sole difference with Christ."

An illuminating statement, which American fellow travelers might read with profit.

But this is not his "sole difference with Christ," however prompted by the desire to butter us up for world Communism.

As Dr. Wilson O. Clough, of the University of Wyoming, says: "Every form of tyranny, in whatever degree, is based ultimately on a contempt for man in the large. . . . It rests finally on arrogance."

Khrushchev's police state rests on "a contempt for man in the large," on the assumption that 200 million Russians do not know what they should have, and that a self-appointed cabal of a dozen men do know, and have the right, from their superior knowledge, to kill off millions of their own people in order to force the survivors to accept their decisions. No opposition is tolerated.

Although Russians were kicked around by czars for centuries, they nevertheless resisted, and it is hard to believe they will permanently accept Khrushchev's playing czar.

Adlai Sees Blunder Over Spy, Against Partisan Censure

Boonville Senior Is Top Public Speaker

WELLSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Carl Joslin, 17, a Boonville Central school senior, has been judged the top public speaker in the Future Farmers of America statewide competition.

Carl won the $100 prize Thursday night at the FFA's state convention and will represent New York at the group's regional contest in Grohgan in August to determine speakers for the national convention.

He spoke on "bovine mastitis," a glandular disease of the dairy cow.

Gerald Coon, 17, of Phelps, was second and received a $35 prize. Third, fourth and fifth prize awards of $25 went to Daniel Moore, 17, of Cherry Valley, Robert Husted, 17, of Albion, and James Manley, 16, of Skaneateles. More than 1,100 youths are attending the three-day convention.

CHICAGO (AP) — Although branding the spy plane incident a blunder by the Eisenhower administration, Adlai E. Stevenson has declared that this is no time for partisan censure.

"This summit meeting is too fateful for any American to risk making the President's task even more difficult," he said Thursday night.

Stevenson, who urged Americans to pray for the success of the President's mission to Paris next week, said the downing of a U2 plane over the Soviet Union has caused "a drop in America's reputation around the world."

The temperature has fallen sharply at the summit," he declared, adding that he hoped the incident will not lead the Soviets to "really question our good faith in seeking a way to peace."

Stevenson, defeated Democratic presidential candidate in 1952 and 1956, spoke before a session of the Conference of World Tension at the University of Chicago. Delegates from over the world are meeting there to discuss ways of easing world tension.

While backing the President on the necessity for gathering intelligence — that was the mission of the plane downed May 1 — Stevenson said:

"But our timing, our words, our management must and will be sharply questioned."

"In short, our government blundered and admitted it. And the blunder has made the President's task at the summit meeting more difficult. Changes must and will be made."

Referring to Premier Nikita Khrushchev's angry statements after the downing of the plane, Stevenson said: "I hope that Mr. Khrushchev's intemperate words will not discourage us from the most serious and patient negotiations."

Airliner Strikes Turbulent Air, 55 Are Shaken Up

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Delta Air Lines DC8B jet struck turbulent air that shook up the 55 persons aboard and injured two of them seriously enough to require hospitalization.

Two stewardesses, two children and nine other persons were flung from their seats to the floor and ceiling Thursday.

William Lanuti of Miami and Theresa Novacek of Hollywood, Fla., were hospitalized. The others were treated at Jackson Memorial Hospital and released.

Lanuti had fractures of both wrists, scalp lacerations and possible head and chest injuries. Mrs. Novacek, 79, had multiple sprains and contusions.

Stewardess Betty Joe Morris of Coral Gables, Fla., was flung to the floor and several passengers in the tourist compartment were thrown from their seats.

"I made a hole this big in the ceiling," said Kurt Strauss of Coatesville, Pa., holding his outstretched arms about three feet apart.

"I had my seat belt on and the cable holding it to the floor broke," he said.

Strauss was treated for severe head and face lacerations. The two children, Ronnie Albert, 12 and his sister, Meggie, 6, were treated for bruises.

Capt. Reed Knight of Fort Lauderdale, pilot of the nonstop Chicago-to-Miami flight, said the plane dropped to 10,000 feet preparatory to landing when it hit the rough weather. He said the skies were clear with only a few fleecy clouds at that elevation.

"There was no warning of any turbulence," he added. "There was one bump; no more and no less."

Knight said the plane was flying 322 miles per hour at the time. Delta officials said the plane apparently was not damaged.

Deaths

PARIS (AP) — Prince Aly Khan, 48, United Nations delegate from Pakistan and father of the reigning Aga Khan, was killed Thursday in an automobile accident.

NEW YORK (AP)—Lucile Pugh, 75, a mannishly attired, pipe-smoking woman lawyer who gained national attention through her handling of both criminal and civil cases, died Thursday.

CHICAGO (AP) — Nate Gross, 53, conductor of the "Town Tattler" column in Chicago's American for 20 years, died Thursday, apparently of a heart attack. He had been with the American since 1933.

New Paltz Area Methodist Notes Student Center Will Be Opened

At the Monday meeting of the official board of New Paltz Methodist Church it was voted to use the recently purchased house adjoining the present church building for a student center and living quarters for the assistant minister to students.

The part of the house, which will undoubtedly be known as Wesley House, to be used for the student program consists of a large living room and fireplace, a kitchen, and dinette. It will have easy access from Main Street and will provide an ideal center for Methodist Church student activities.

Reports were also given at the meeting of the board indicating that work should begin on the educational addition sometime in June.

Fun Fair Slated

A Fun Fair will be held under the auspices of the Wesley Student Fellowship Saturday, May 21, on the grounds of the New Paltz Methodist Church, Main and Grove Streets. All types of entertainment will be offered including old-time movies in the social hall, a fortune telling booth, an old-fashioned "lock-cord," artist sketching, and other activities of interest to all ages. George Nettleton, George Carpenter and Peter Jacobs are heading up the committee in charge.

Women to Be Installed

The officers of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the New Paltz Methodist Church will be installed by the pastor Sunday at the 11 o'clock morning worship service. The other service at the church will be at 8:30 a. m.

Services will also be conducted in the New Paltz Methodist Parish Sunday in Lloyd, 9:15 a. m. and Plutarch, 2 p. m.

Superintendent to Talk

The Rev. Dr. John M. Pearson, superintendent of the Newburgh District of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church, will speak at the New Paltz Church Sunday, 7:30 p. m. His topic will be "Report from General Conference" and "Reminiscences in Methodist Organization." This will take place in the social hall and the general membership of the parish may attend, as well as all others who may be interested in knowing more about the Methodist Church.

Migrant Workshop

The New Paltz Area Migrant Committee has been working to set up plans for a migrant ministry pilot project for September and October of this year. During this time of peak migrant population it is planned that a migrant chaplain should be in the area to minister to the needs of the seasonal workers.

The committee is seeking support from area churches, business organizations, and others interested in this community project. Contributions are being sent to William Coy Jr., of Clintondale, who is the treasurer of the committee.

The Rev. Willett Porter and the Rev. George Johnson, chairman and secretary of the committee respectively, will be attending the Northeastern Migrant Ministry Workshop this coming week, being held under the auspices of the New York State and National Councils of Churches.

Dinner on Wednesday

The annual spring dinner sponsored by New Paltz Methodist Church will be held Wednesday, May 18, with servings at 5:30 and 7 p. m. in the social hall of the church. Tickets may still be procured from members of the church or at Zupp's Pharmacy, Dearnley's Drug Store, Doug's Auto Service and New Paltz Bake Shop. Hearings End 30 Buffalo Cops Are Quizzed by State Commission

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — More than 30 Buffalo policemen reportedly have been questioned on the operation of the department by the State Investigation Commission in closed sessions here.

The commission Thursday completed three days of hearings that were apparently prompted by the department's refusal to answer a 35-question form mailed to the force by the investigation commission last month.

The nature of the hearings was not revealed by the commission but unofficial sources reported that the policemen were quizzed orally on the same information sought in the questionnaire.

The men appeared without subpoena and with the permission of Police Commissioner Frank Felicetta, the commission said.

Felicetta, backed by the city's corporation counsel, had advised the force not to answer the questionnaires.

The questionnaires were mailed to the 1,350 members of the force late in April. They asked the policemen if they thought crime statistics were withheld and gambling laws enforced locally. Questions of a personal nature were also asked.

Served Through All

Only cabinet members to serve through all the administrations of President Franklin D. Roosevelt were Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

No Dates Given For Services of Governor's Dad

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A private funeral service for John D. Rockefeller Jr. will be held at the Rockefeller family's Pocantico Hills estate near here at an early date. The service will be limited to members of the immediate family.

A memorial service open to the public will be held later at the Riverside Church in Manhattan, Rockefeller financed the building of the nondenominational church on Riverside Drive.

Ashes Flown Home

No date for either service has been set yet.

Rockefeller's ashes were flown home from Tucson, Ariz., where he was cremated Wednesday shortly after he died in a hospital there of pneumonia and heart strain. Rockefeller, head of one of the world's richest families, was 86.

His ashes, brought east in an urn in a Rockefeller family plane, will be buried in the family plot at Sleepy Hollow.

The plane, which made one refueling stop at Memphis, arrived Thursday night at Westchester County Airport.

On the plane were the widow, Mrs. Martha Rockefeller; two sons, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Laurance Rockefeller; and Mrs. Marian Packard, of Providence, R.I., an old friend of the widow.

Another son, Winthrop Rockefeller, met the plane at Memphis where he had flown from his home at Little Rock, Ark. He did not join the family group. A family spokesman said he would do so later.

The plane was met by Mrs. Mary Rockefeller, the governor's wife; Mrs. Laurance Rockefeller; a fourth son, John D. Rockefeller III; and Steven Rockefeller, a son of the New York Governor. Steven was joined by his wife, a fifth son, David, is in Europe and is expected to arrive home shortly.

The family group came from the airport to the 4,180-acre Pocantico Hills estate, established 66 years ago by John D. Rockefeller Sr.

Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson will represent Rockefeller at the events the governor had been scheduled to attend, including the dedication next Thursday of a new wing of the State Education Department building and a convocation of the Board of Regents.

The governor will resume his schedule Friday, when he will visit Saranac Lake and Lake Placid.

His father, John D. Rockefeller Jr., died Wednesday in Tucson, Ariz.

Invention of the canal lock in 1481 made possible the building of modern canals since it facilitated the running of canals through land of various levels.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN—Word has reached here of the death, May 4, of Dr. John Van Ord Hibbard, 76, at his home on Riverdale Road, Greenwich, Conn. Dr. Hibbard in waterworks days resided at Brodhead and for several years was in charge of the hospital in the big contractors camp at Brown's. A graduate of the University of Buffalo Medical School in 1906, he was one of the founders of the cancer clinic at Port Chester Hospital in the early 1920's.

The take of big trout up at New York City's Pepacton Reservoir continues good this season as has also been the case for the past two years. Recently, a Poughkeepsie couple and their young son caught four trout weighing a total of 18 pounds in two early forenoon hours of fishing but had no success the rest of the day. The woman and the boy, who caught one each, had never fished before.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jordan of New York and Woodstock were weekend callers in Shokan. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lawlor, retired local storekeeper, are again at their Route 28 home after spending several months with relatives at Sarasota, Fla., and Los Angeles.

Jana Adels, Onteora School pupil and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Adels of the Ruckert Apartments, observed her eighth birthday Tuesday, May 10. Says Tax Relief Starting Now for New York People

FULTON, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's administration and the Legislature provided New Yorkers with $21,300,000 in tax relief this year and it's "only a starter," the Republican state chairman says.

"We are within sight of some general tax relief," GOP chieftain L. Judson Morhouse said last night at a fund-raising dinner of the Oswego County Republican Committee. He did not give any details.

Morhouse said New Yorkers saved an estimated $7,200,000 in their tax bills when legislation was approved that made the New York State income tax law conform with the federal law. This action added several deductions to the state tax.

He said other tax-relief measures affected unincorporated business, truck owners, owners of station wagons and unmarried heads of households.

U. S. Gets Slap From UN Head Over Spy Threat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—In an apparent slap at the United States, the president of the United Nations says a national policy that ignores the territorial sovereignty of other countries is a challenge to the U.N. constitution. Sir Claude Corea, Ceylon's representative to the U.N., did not mention the United States or any other country by name Thursday in a talk at a meeting saluting the United Nations.

But he apparently was referring to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's statements that spy flights over Russia are necessary and will continue.

A U.S. plane making a reconnaissance flight over Russia was brought down by the Russians May 1.

Corea said he wished to call attention to the "significance of any declaration which openly ignores the territorial sovereignty of any country. That poses for the United Nations a challenge, for the basic fabric of the United Nations constitution is built on respect of territorial sovereignty and integrity of all members."

More Emphasis Needed on Women's Formal Education

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

The time may come when women's colleges will provide day nurseries to care for the children of married students, says Dr. Mary I. Bunting, who will be inaugurated May 19 as the fifth president of Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass.

"We must find some way of encouraging girls to continue their education, even though they marry and have babies before graduation," says Dr. Bunting.

Dr. Bunting, who has been dean of Douglass college, a division of Rutgers university at New Brunswick, N.J., for the last five years, says the national epidemic of youthful marriages is one of the gravest problems facing American colleges. She does not condemn the trend, but says colleges must adjust to a new situation.

"Our girls today face complex problems," says Dr. Bunting. "This year's girl high school graduates must look forward to working outside the home for 25 years, according to statements of the U. S. Department of Labor."

"Many will marry before they are old enough to be graduated from college, will start raising families and will not look ahead to the time when they must return to work. If they are to make the most of their abilities, they must have the education and training necessary for interesting and responsible jobs."

As chairman of the U. S. Commission on the Education of Women last year, Dr. Bunting aired some strong views on the nation's responsibility toward developing the vast potential of women's talents.

"It's a matter of course these days that men's education and job training continues almost indefinitely, first at colleges and universities, later in business and said. 'But the matter of women's education has been taken too lightly, by both educators and students.'"

Eight campuses and 43,478 students of the University of California make it the world's largest university.

Music Society Holds Guest Night

Guest night was observed by the Kingston Musical Society at its meeting on May 11, which was held at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The program featured music for two pianos. It began with "Italian Concerto (First Movement)" by Bach-Bauer and played by Mrs. John Erickson and Miss Edna Merrihew. Mrs. Roland Tonnesen and Mrs. William Rylance presented "Variations Symphoniques 'Poco Allegro'" by Franck.

Using prints loaned by Mrs. Roger H. Loughran and Walter G. Geroldsek, Mrs. Dewese DeWitt offered "A Commentary on the Four Seasons." The Choral Speaking Ensemble under the direction of Miss Alberta Davis introduced music of the four seasons with several choral readings. After the readings for Summer, Mrs. Willard Burke and Mrs. Amos Newcombe played "Intermezzo-Op. 61 (A Mid-Summer Night's Dream)" by Mendelssohn.

For Autumn-Winter Mrs. George Baron and Mrs. Lester Decker presented "El Pelele, (The Straw Man)" by Granados; and Mrs. Harold Francis and Mrs. William Wood played "The Sleigh Ride (A La Russe)" by Kountz. For Spring Mrs. Henry Millionig was joined by her three daughters, Ann Lynn Millionig, Mrs. Clarence Beehler, and Mrs. Robert MacKinnon, and they presented on two pianos "Country Gardens" by Granger. Mrs. Harold Francis, pianist, accompanied the choral ensemble.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Clarence Beehler, Mrs. Dewese DeWitt, Mrs. Robert MacKinnon, and Miss Alberta Davis. Hostesses were the Meses. Henry Dunbar, John Erickson, Harry Kennedy, Harry Legg, Amos Newcombe, Alfred Nussbaum, Clyde Wonderly, and William Wood. The extra grand piano was furnished by the Winters Piano Company.

The next meeting of the Society will be held on June 8 at the home of Mrs. Henry Millionig.

Lehigh Corps Band Will Give Concert Saturday, May 21

The Lehigh Corps Band of The Salvation Army, Philadelphia, Pa., will present a Festival of Music Saturday evening, May 21, in the auditorium of the George Washington School, it was announced today by Major Foster J. Meitrott, officer-in-charge of the local SA corps.

The concert Saturday evening will begin at 8 p. m. The band will also be in Kingston Sunday, May 22.

Bandsman David Huntbach, cornet virtuoso of international reputation, and Bandsman Wyn Sharp, who plays the euphonium, will solo.

Maj. Meitrott said the Salvation Army has been called the "singing Army" and can just as aptly be called the "musical Army," that in its ranks are many groups of Salvationists banded together to present music via the brass band medium, not only in this country but around the world.

The Lehigh Corps Band is typical of Army bands from New Zealand to Canada, he said. It has a total of 35 brass instrumentalists, from the smallest, the E flat soprano cornet, to the tuba. Two percussionists top the instrumentation.

The Lehigh Band, in existence for the past 40 years, is not made up of professionals. Members work at their own jobs or attend school. Bandmaster Kenneth Strehle, who has conducted the band for almost 25 years, rose from the ranks. He is now divisional music director for the Army in Southeastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey.

Among the widely diversified personnel of the band are electronic engineers, draftsmen, accountants, stenographers, housewives, three college students and eight high school students.

The band has traveled widely in its own part of the country, playing as far north as Portland, Me., and south to Washington, D. C. It is in constant demand for local programs and plays for the Army's religious services in Philadelphia.

It was acclaimed once by the late Dr. Edwin Franko Goldman as one of the most pleasing sounding bands he had heard. It has been rated as one of the Army's better corps of bands.

P-TA Conference Attended by 300 Area Delegates

This week about 300 delegates from the Central Hudson P-TA District Units convened at the Minisink Valley Central School for their annual Spring Conference.

The theme of the conference was, "P-TA's in a Changing World." Mrs. Meredith Springer, immediate past State P-TA president now on the National P-TA Board, opened the conference with greetings from the state level. She spoke of P-TA's tremendous task of keeping abreast and ahead of the many changes taking place in all areas of society, especially in education.

In the Presidents' Workshop, Mrs. Ann Voigt, Central Hudson District Director, advised a thorough study of the manual which contains the P-TA's policies and objects, a suggested set of by-laws; also outlines duties of officers and committee chairmen; also given a parliamentary procedure and helpful suggestions on how to conduct a meeting and how to set up good programs. Mrs. Voigt also talked about many other helpful materials such as the booklet entitled "New Hope for Audiences" that gives in detail many discussion methods that stimulate audience participation. She listed some periodicals also, including the National Parent-Teacher Magazine and the New York Parent-Teacher and the District release, the Crier.

In the workshop entitled "Improving Attendance at Meetings," with Mrs. B. Larys assisting, it was pointed out that the hospitality and membership chairmen and the home-room representatives are interrelated and all three must work together for effective attendance. It was said that hospitality was a more than refreshments and the chairman needed to be one who had a natural, friendly outgoing feeling toward people, one who would be aware of newcomers.

Home-room representation, it was felt, went deeper than helping teachers with parties or telephoning, by promoting grade-level study groups. Membership will improve when program is meaningful and members feel they are being kept informed on school matters.

In the Program Publicity Workshop, the exceptional child program was discussed considerably. Mrs. D. Buehring, district exceptional child chairman, said that the local P-TA Unit was the logical organization to help other parents. She urged every unit that has nothing on the exceptional child, to schedule a program for the coming year. "By alerting yourselves, you can help alert the community as to the needs of the retarded and bright," Mrs. Buehring told the group.

The main function of councils as discussed in the "Council and Public Relations" workshop is a public relations one; that of welding units in a central Council undertaking community service projects. It was suggested that Units write into their By-Laws the broader interpretation for Unit delegates voting at council (found in the new National Council Handbook); that Unit delegates, as representing their local Units, vote in accordance with Unit instructions, unless authorized by members to use own judgment.

In the workshop, "Raising and Using P-TA Funds," it was stressed that P-TA's are educational, not fund-raising organizations; that P-TA's do not solicit nor do they donate money to any other organizations. Mrs. Meredith Springer, in the workshop "You and Your P-TA" for administrators, principals and board members, stressed the importance of good, workable relations, one with another.

In the afternoon a skit entitled "P-TA's on a Hot Tin Roof" by Charlotte Bordwell, was presented. It was both entertaining and a valuable instrument for studying the real meaning of P-TA. The skit brought out need for membership through a program that informs, the need for studying with the administrators, the proper uses of P-TA funds, the need for clearly defined budgets voted on by the association, the need for getting and holding an interested, participating membership, the need for knowledge, understanding of school problems on the part of P-TA's before action.

Those attending the conference from Ulster County were Mrs. F. Hart and Mrs. E. Coy from New Paltz; Mrs. A. Horvath, Mrs. E. Schmidt, Mrs. J.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Radio-TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The report was that Elvis Presley received $100,000 for his appearance on Frank Sinatra's ABC special Thursday night.

Joey Bishop, one of Sinatra's helpers, in fact, suggested that Frank could have produced World War II for the price of his welcome home Elvis show. Be that as it may, few have received so much for doing so little as the ex-GI. Two solos and one duet with his host.

At the opening of the show, we glimpsed our hero in a uniform that looked about two sizes too big for him. He didn't show up again until the very end of the program. Then, it was in an unaccustomed dinner jacket minus sideburns and guitar but with a pompadour that must have gladdened the hair oil industry.

During his first song, Elvis just stood still and sang. During his second number, he engaged in some modified writhing—or maybe the concealing dinner jacket modified it. Anyway, an apparently hand-picked audience of high-voiced female teen-agers almost drowned him out at times seemingly on cue. It was all very mysterious: the loudest shrieks came between gyrations and bumps.

Grange

Lake Katrine-Clintondale

Asbury Grange was the host this week for Lake Katrine and Clintondale Granges with guests also from Stone Ridge, Huguenot, and other Granges from Ulster County on the occasion of the annual visitation program as outlined by the State Grange.

Grange Lecturer Mrs. Edgar Wilhelm introduced Grange lecturers from Lake Katrine and Clintondale who, with their committees, furnished the evening's program. Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. Lillian Compitello, Mrs. Blanche Cotton, Mrs. Marge Kohan and Mrs. Mary Kamps. About 85 were present.

Asbury Grange Master Herman Bungars conducted the meeting. He announced that there would be no more supper meetings for Asbury until next September, the next regular meeting May 23 would start at 8:30 p. m. and will include the annual Memorial Service.

Background to The Summit No. 4

Red Party Bickering Hinted Over Khrush's All-Out Peace Offensive

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press News Analyst
Nikita Khrushchev has sayings to fit almost any occasion. For the summit meeting next week it's: "To kill the bugs one needn't burn down the house."

This attitude seemed to dominate the Soviet Premier's tactics in advance of the summit meeting opening Monday in Paris. World communism, patently, still aims at world domination. But achieving it by force could risk burning down the whole house in a nuclear war.

Blast Questioned

To that extent, it might be said that Khrushchev sincerely wants peace. Why, then, his belligerent blasts at the West, such as the one before the Supreme Soviet last week?

For one thing, the United States indicates it will resist a peace imposed on the world on Soviet terms. For another, there are impatient forces in the background in the Communist world, nagging at Khrushchev and threatening to force him into repeating Stalin's old mistakes.

Communism, a dynamic movement, risks stagnation if it stands still. Khrushchev seems to feel it has plenty of room to move elsewhere than in Europe while it pursues a dogged, long-range attack on NATO's foundations. A factor behind Khrushchev's energetic peace offensive and evident anxiety for a summit meeting seemed to have been a wish to give momentum to a drive against the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Its liquidation, if it was to be achieved at all, would take time.

NATO Stalin's Mistake

One reason for NATO's existence was a Stalin mistake. His grab for Berlin and openly warlike posture frightened the West into close military cooperation.

Khrushchev's thrusts have been mostly tactical, political feints, showing little inclination to repeat Stalin's errors. Only in an atmosphere of relaxed tension could Khrushchev hope to pull NATO apart.

Yet Khrushchev's blast last week could hardly be considered a contribution to relaxed tension. Perhaps there was more to it than time than just the familiar Communist procedure: Advance and retreat, threat and blandishment.

There are strong indications Khrushchev's all-out peace offensive tactics have been challenged within his own party and among the U.S.S.R.'s allies.

Khrushchev, as many a Communist statement has testified, seemed confident that the balance of political authority was swinging to the Communist side throughout the uncommitted world. His plan seemed to have been to sustain enough pressure to focus world attention on Berlin and Germany, but not enough to upset the peaceful coexistence appeacart. Communism could move, meanwhile, in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Peaceful Demands

Soviet demands in Germany were made in the name of solicitude for peace. West Berlin, three quarters of a city 110 miles inside Red-ruled East Germany, has been an abnormal situation, said Khrushchev, and what could be more reasonable than making it an international free city, perhaps under the United Nations?

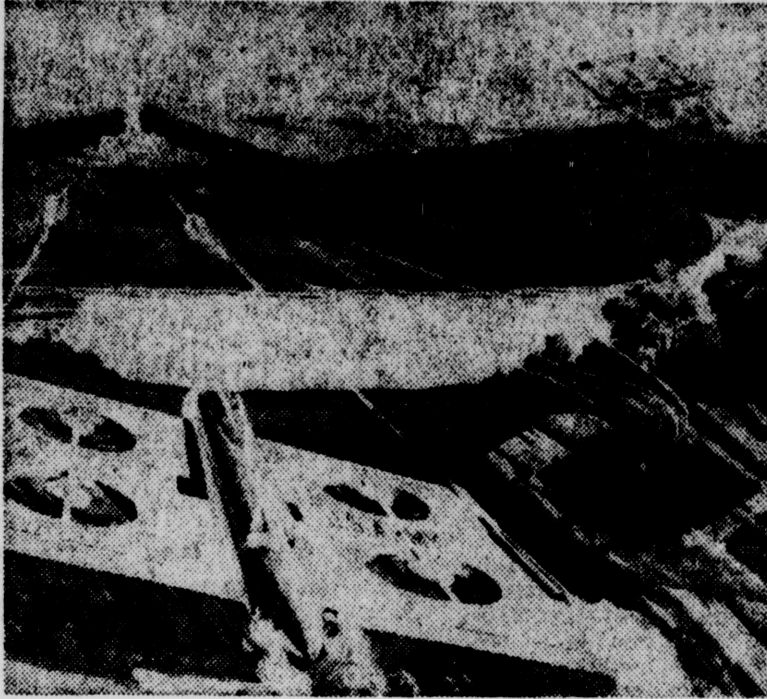

That would end the American, British, French and Soviet occupation of Berlin. The U.S. occupation is a token one, but its existence deters Communist dreams of seizing the whole city. With the Americans out and the U.N. administering West Berlin, the Soviets would have a say in its affairs. The U.N. would be a far less effective deterrent.

The two Germanys, said Khrushchev, constitute an abnormal situation, and therefore nations which fought the Nazis should sign peace treaties with both of them. That would make things nice and normal. East Germany, thus recognized, could then proceed with logical-sounding demands on West Berlin as a city within its territory and subject to its sovereignty.

By Khrushchev reckoning, the peace treaties would mean withdrawal of all troops from Germany. The Soviets would withdraw a few hundred miles. The Americans would get out of Europe. There is no place else for the installations now in West Germany. NATO would become a tottering shell.

Belligerent Speech

Could the Communists then be stopped in Europe? Not by ground forces. The United States might threaten from afar with nuclear weapons. But what about the NATO partners? Would they prefer nuclear war over their soil to nonresistance? And would the Soviets stand still and wait for STORMING A BEACHHEAD 1970 STYLE—Bloody beach assaults eventually will be a thing of the past, as displayed in this new U. S. Army exhibit now on a nationwide tour. This panel depicts warfare in the 1970's, when Commanders will have to think in terms of miles and "kilotons" rather than yards and rounds-per-minute. Troops will be projected into battle zones using three-dimensional transport devices to surprise the enemy with force and suddenness never before known. The exhibit will be displayed May 13 and 14 by the Kingston Army Recruiting Station at the Municipal Auditorium.

the first blow?

Thus seemed to go the reasoning behind the peaceful coexistence offensive: Soft words, veiled threats, promises, and above all, patience.

But Khrushchev's speech last week went beyond all that. It was belligerent. Like Stalin's in the past, it could stiffen the Allied will toward unified resistance.

Perhaps Khrushchev still did not want to burn down the house to get at the bugs. But it was possible that the impatient ones with whom he must deal had thrust a sledgehammer into his hands. And with it, Khrushchev may have damaged severely the delicate peaceful coexistence structure he had been building so carefully for the past several years.

15,000 Whipped Into Frenzy

Havana Boils With Anti-U.S. Feelings

HAVANA (AP)—Shouts of "Get out! Get out!" greeted every mention of U. S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal at a hysterical five-hour anti-American rally at Havana University that carried into the early hours today.

More than 15,000 students, workers and civilian militiamen were whipped into a frenzy by student and union leaders ranting against "Yankee imperialism" and charging repeatedly that the United States is preparing an invasion of Cuba.

Havana seethed with anti-Americanism.

Sees U.S. Aggression

Maj. Rolando Cubela, head of the University Student Federation, called the rally to muster support for his charge that the United States plans "direct aggression" against the island republic.

He again cited as proof signs the U. S. Embassy has prepared for posting on U. S.-owned buildings in the event of trouble. The embassy has explained that the notices are routine preparedness carried out by U. S. embassies all over the world.

Another student leader, Maj. Angel Quevedo, roused the throng of students, militiamen and workers to cheers with the assertion: "If the embassy denies that the (U. S.) government is criminally preparing to wage war in our country, then they will have to tell us what other puppet and subjected governments of Latin America that they are thinking of using to make war."

Temper Fanned by Killing

The anti-American temper was fanned by the killing of an American civilian pilot, Matthews Edward Duke, 45, earlier in the day outside Havana. Officials said he was trying to fly out of Cuba when he was shot down by Cuban forces. The government said he landed on the highway, saw an ambush was waiting for him, and was shot as he tried to take off again.

Duke was on the U. S. border patrol's blacklist of 29 pilots suspected of illegal flights to Cuba, and U. S. airports had been warned not to rent any of them a plane. Federal aviation officials said he rented a plane at Baton Rouge, La., by saying he was flying to Texas for a cargo of spare airplane parts.

Extra details of Cuban police stood guard outside the glass-walled U. S. embassy, about a mile from the university demonstration. The demonstrators made no attempt to attack the embassy, however.

Man Slays Wife

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Steffen Meyer, 62, a semi-invalid who is unemployed, shot and killed his wife, Anna, 67, as she sat in her wheel chair Thursday night, police said. Then he tried to kill himself.

Meyer was booked on suspicion of homicide.

Boy Is Quizzed By Police About Check Cash Try

Police this afternoon were taking statements from a 15-year-old boy who, it is claimed, made unsuccessful attempts to cash a check or checks at uptown banks this morning.

Officials at both the Kingston Trust Company, 27 Main Street, and the National Ulster Branch of the State of New York National Bank, said the amount of the check, which he had asked to be cashed was $50.

The boy, it was reported, had left the Kingston Trust Company building as the validity of the check was being questioned, and was picked up minutes later near St. Joseph's Church by Officer Robert Bonesteel. He was taken to police headquarters by officers Joseph Kivlin and Leon Fitzgerald and turned over to detectives Gurnsey Burger and Harold DeGraff.

It was indicated that attempts to cash the check or checks at other banks, but full details were not available from the police at 1:40 p. m.

Clean-Up Week Starts Monday

The Town Board of Woodstock has proclaimed the week May 15 to May 21 as Clean-Up Week, with May 21 designated as town Open House day.

Supervisor Abram F. Molyneux has asked that during the cleanup week all merchants, property owners and town agencies make every effort to clean up their premises, if they have not already done so, and to repair or wash all designating signs and other areas that can be viewed by the public.

The purpose of "Open House" will be to give all taxpayers in the township of Woodstock an opportunity to view the municipal facilities which shall include fire companies, water district, highway department and town hall.

The supervisor said: "I hope each property owner will actively participate in our clean-up week with spirit. George Haythorne has already started painting in front of the town hall. Plans are in progress to repaint flag poles and other municipally owned property that needs it. We hope private individuals will be stimulated by this activity on the part of the town."

Education Puts Responsibility On School Board

The elected Boards of Education are responsible for setting the policies and standards that will bring into effect the full range of education desired by the community and for the employment of school administrators who will believe in these policies.

This was one of the central themes developed at the recent Cornell University P-T-A Institute attended by Mrs. Anne Larys, Mrs. Janet Greene and Mrs. Jack Garside of the Woodstock and Ontario P-T-A's.

The school administrators are responsible for determining professionally how these goals may be set into practice and for supervising the school staff to see that full scope of the program for quality education is met.

Still other forces to expedite quality education throughout the state were revealed to the institute. Dr. William Firman, president of the New York State Association of Elementary Principals, explained the research project he is chairing for the State Education Department. It is concerned with the problem of measuring quality in New York State schools.

This research group is in the process of designing machines and a set of measurements to be used in these machines that will measure the quality of our schools from three aspects: (1) the achievement of the schools in giving each child a firm foundation in the basic educational concepts, the three R's; (2) the achievement of the schools in giving the children the intangible qualities of the ability to think, an inquiring mind, problem solving, ability, etc.; (3) in the achievement of the schools to search out the individual talent of each child and foster it.

Teacher Is Vital
Dr. Herman Cooper, Executive Dean for Teacher Education, State University of New York, pointed out to the institute that unless the quality of teacher training was improved, the public could expect little improvement in the quality of education for the children. He mentioned several ways in which the State University, through its state teacher colleges, is making new strides in the improvement of teacher training. He forecast new concepts that will be given to teachers, and new requirements for certifications.

The entire institute was in accord that such quality education should have a firm foundation in morals and values. These must be fostered by parents in every home in the state. Parents must become more concerned about the example they set for their children to imitate and they must insist that every child have prudence, temperance and fortitude as integral part of their lives.

Monsieur Donald M. Cleary, Catholic chaplain, Cornell United Religious Work, said that unless we have a return to the cardinal virtues in our education system the three R's are worth nothing; that a school administration, staff and students who do not embody obedience, politeness, honesty and patriotism can neither give nor receive quality education. Unfortunately, he said, by default of the homes, the burden of teaching virtues was falling on the schools.

James Buyous, attorney at law of Utica, said: "There is no substitute for an open mind, exposed to excellence through books and art, and guided by high moral and spiritual values."

H. Schimmerling On Education

The first words which a child learns are the same which an adult learns when studying a foreign language. These are the expressions denoting family relationship (father, mother, daughter, son), phenomena of nature (sun, moon, star, earth, rain, thunder, light, dark); colors (black, red, white, green); parts of the body (eye, ear, mouth, hand, foot), verbs denoting common, instinctive activities (do, make, see, hear, go, eat, live, love), etc.

All these words are of Anglo-Saxon origin. The more words we need to express ourselves in a more detailed and specified way, the more words of Latin (Roman) origin we have to add to our vocabulary. Even such simple words as mountain, lake, space, test, stomach are of Roman origin. The identification of simple and Anglo-Saxon on the one hand, and the use of words of Latin origin for exacter and more specified dealing with linguistic issues on the other hand is shown in the following:

The activity itself "to fight" is Anglo-Saxon, the result of the activity "victory" or "defeat" Roman; the activity "to eat" is Anglo-Saxon, the result "digest" is Roman. This is not the place to go into further linguistic details. The above was mentioned in order to emphasize the importance of the Latin language and to say that the poor vocabulary of our youngsters (and some adults as well) is largely due to the insufficient emphasis put on the Roman element in our English language.

The Latin language should be taught not just for the purpose of reading Ovid and Virgil in the vernacular but to introduce the student into the orbit of Latin culture (as music should not be taught primarily to build up a repertoire of songs or concert numbers, but to inject good music into the cultural bloodstream of the student).

Besides, the knowledge of Latin is the best way to simplify the study of any other language; first of all Romance languages, then, as explained above, English; and even Slavic languages because of certain similarities in grammar (number of cases, declension, omission of articles, etc.). I dare say that studying Latin plus 4 or 5 more individual languages, including English—H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Junior Riders Plan Hayride

The Woodstock Riding Club's progressive subsidiary, the Junior Riding Committee, is planning a hayride to Mink Hollow Ranch on May 21. A dance will be held.

Music for dancing will be furnished by the Hudson Valley Boys and there will be modern and square dancing. Tickets which are nominally priced can be obtained from any member of the Junior Riding Committee.

Riding Club Junior Group Has Meeting

The fourth meeting of the Junior division of the Woodstock Riding Club was held on April 30, at Emmy Gibson's house in Woodstock. Several parents drove the members to the McCabe residence in Kingston to see the McCabe stable of horses.

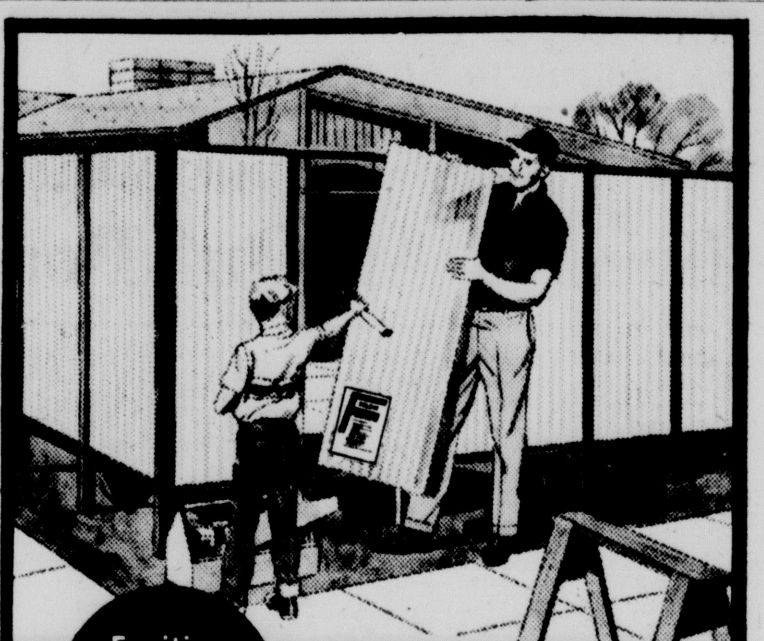

McCabe told about the raising and training of trotters. It was an interesting talk and club members enjoyed seeing the seven-week old filly.

After visiting the McCabe's, the members returned to the Gibson home for the business meeting. Election of officers was held and the following were named: Dick Plaatsman, chairman; Judy De Groff, vice chairman; and Nikki Ketcham, secretary. They will assume office after the May meeting which is scheduled on May 28 at the home of Rogan, Steffi and Tom Graham.

Apparent Failure, NASA
Word on Balloon Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

—The United States tried but apparently failed today in an effort to sail a giant balloon satellite into orbit around the earth as a reflector for long-range radio waves.

The experiment, called Project Echo, will be tried again later this year. Its ultimate aim is a procession of 100-foot aluminum-coated plastic spheres circling the planet as dependable backboards for worldwide communication signals.

Contact Soon Lost

Today's balloon, collapsed inside a 26½-inch magnesium ball, got off to an apparently good start at 4:16 a. m. from this missile test station on the nose of a towering Thor-Delta rocket. The aim was to eject the balloon and inflate it at orbit level.

Ground observers saw the second stage rocket take over in the sky some three minutes later but contact was soon lost.

Scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington said there was a slim chance the payload had gone into an orbit different from the planned path.

But a spokesman said the most likely thing was that the third stage, with the payload still attached, fell back to earth. There were no reliable signals even to show that the second stage was detached.

NASA agency officials said there will be another trial before the end of the year.

An official said 12 rockets of the type used today are on order for various experiments this year. The list includes launching of more inflatable spheres and of vehicles intended to generate power in space from solar rays.

Within two hours after the launching NASA scientists reported communication failure had left them in the dark as to what happened after the burnout of the second stage.

The effort was aimed to put into a 1,000-mile-high orbit a balloon as high as a 10-story building. The great sphere was to be inflated after reaching orbit altitude.

The NASA said the first stage burned correctly and the second stage also performed very well, but trouble set in after the second stage burned out.

During a long coasting period at that stage the position of the rocket was to be controlled by small jets. About half way through the coasting period reports showed these control jets failed to operate.

NASA estimated the cost of the device, including rocket and payload, at between four and five million dollars.

Newburgh Nears Title With Win Over Pioneers

Belting a pair of pitchers for 10 base hits, Kingston High School's baseball team moved into second place in the DUSO circuit with a 10-5 victory at Middletown yesterday. While the batters made merry, pitcher Paul Gardner had a two-hit shutout until the seventh when he tired and surrendered five runs.

In the biggest game of the day, Newburgh Free Academy nipped Poughkeepsie High, 3-2, at the Hilly City diamond to just about wrap up the championship. The contest was marked by the banishment of PHS Coach Sam J. Kalloch in the fifth inning by plate umpire Pete Perrino. Jack Wolpe fired the win for NFA with big Carl Cerniglia taking the loss.

The Standings

Newburgh	5	0

Poughkeepsie	2	2

Coach Al Gruener's nine tallied three runs in the first frame and that lead looked mighty big. However, the locals really lit the fuse in the fifth, sending 10 batters to the plate and scoring six runs.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Messrs. Henry Hartley, Floyd W. Flint and Rodney Ball have committed the Twaalfskill swingers to faithful adherence to the Royal and Ancient rules of golf this season.

During the sweepstakes season at the venerable midtown layout, there will be no kicking the ball in the rough, fondling the oversized aspirins on the fairway, or such other ruses and chicanery that might offend the spirit of the rule book. At least that is the fond hope of the distinguished trio that comprise Twaalfskill's golf committee.

In other words, there will be no winter rules during the summer heat waves this season. The golf ball will be caressed only as stipulated by the rule book. Golfdom has always put itself in the rather silly position of homemade "winter" rules.

The United States Golf Association, which together with the Royal and Ancient of St. Andrews, dictates the golf rules of the world, has never officially acknowledged the existence of such vagaries as summer and winter rules. There are only USGA rules. Anything else is a man-made creation attempting to circumvent the true spirit of the game.

We hope the Twaalfskill experiment is a huge success. It will be a frightening experience for some club members to come up to a difficult lie and not be able to tee the ball as high as is humanly possible without actually resorting to the regulation tee. But they will survive and in the long run play better golf.

The unholy liberties that some linksmen take with the so-called winter rules, preferred lies, etc., would send the old Scots rolling over in their graves. In Scotland and England, they play golf as it was created in the beginning. The surest way to get kicked out of a Scottish or British golf club is to get caught tampering with a golf ball in violation of the rules. The "rub of the green" is not an empty phrase of those people.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

How did Floyd De Witt and Clyde Wonderly, Jr. ever manage to blow a seven-hole lead to Maurice and Dick Davenport at Westchester Country Club? Something about a 2-foot putt on the 18th green, but no details are available. . . . J. Howard Byrne's 15-year-old son toured Woodstock Country Club in 76, despite a pair of double bogies on the par 3 ninth hole. . . . Want to hit the professional golf trail? Well, incorporate yourself like Art Silvestrone, the Long Island amateur champion who recently hit the gold rush trail. Art is president of his corporation, his father is treasurer and several others are kicking in $1,000 apiece to raise $10,000 enough to finance Silvestrone for nine months. The arrangement is for Silvestrone to draw $300 a week, $200 for himself and the rest for his family at home, plus a 25 per cent cut on the net earnings. The other 75 per cent is divided up by the shareholders. At the end of the three-year period, if the corporation still is in business, the cut shifts to 75-25 in Silvestrone's favor. The only way they can lose is if Silvestrone doesn't make a penny in a year and a half. It doesn't seem possible the way he is playing. He recently had a 64 on the terrifying Black course at Bethpage, a tremendous accomplishment.

• A Happy Ending:

When Gibbs High School, an all-Negro school in St. Petersburg, Florida, sought coaching assistance from the bevy of white professionals in the St. Pete-Tampa area, only Toby Lyons of Jamestown, N. Y., had the courage to respond. Lyons, head pro at Moon Brook CC in Jamestown, was for several years winter pro at Tony de Lizio's Sunset Club in St. Pete. He defied the segregation fever and volunteered to work free of charge with the Gibbs team twice a week for a six-week period. The happy ending came the other day. Willie Vinson of Gibbs High won the state high school golfing title and a teammate, Aaron Battle, placed fourth in the championship tournament at Jacksonville. Three of the four Gibbs swingers qualified for the finals. Gibbs officials paid high tribute to Lyons for his contribution to the team.

Kildy Corrado paced Sterling with a neat 636 series, hitting games of 212-204-220 for his score. Fred DiBella walloped 187-224-190-601. An anchor man, Dick Howard could only net 529 sticks, far below his average.

Dodgers Ahead In NL Attendance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — San Francisco is not the only California city with a Golden Gate. The Los Angeles Dodgers have got one in operation at the Coliseum. Artistically, the Dodgers have been going over like a club-footed corps de ballet so far this season, losing 14 of their first 25 games.

Now, if they could make as many runs on the field as they've made to the bank, they'd be so far in front you'd have to measure their lead in light years.

In their first 18 games at home, they've drawn 53,123, for an average of more than 30,000 a game. If they kept this up through their 75 home appearances, they'd finish with a gate of a little less than 2,300,000 — which would be a National League record.

Last year the Dodgers drew 2,071,045 at home. But right now they are more than 60,000 ahead of their 1959 pace.

AMERICAN LL DRIVE — Mayor Edwin F. Radel has endorsed the drive for funds for the American Little League in the second, third and 10th wards. The athletes will make a door to door canvass in these wards tomorrow. The drive will be supervised by the adults and officers of the league, the oldest franchised circuit in the county. The Mayor, in approving the drive, suggested that generous response will give extended opportunity for youth activities greatly needed. Shown at the kickoff of the campaign are three league players: Gary Van Ethen, Michael Smedes and Danny Heppner. The adults looking on, from the left: Bing Van Ethen, drive chairman; Mayor Radel; and Vince Smedes, league president. (Freeman photo).

San Francisco Wins Another

Sanford Blanks Phillies, 1-0 With Two Hits

By ED WILKS

Pity those poor San Francisco Giants. They had hitters and sluggers so they traded for more pitching. And what happens? Now the hitters don't hit and the sluggers get hurt, but they've got a two-game lead, a six-game streak and the best pitching in the National League — thanks to three guys they had all the time.

Right-hander Jack Sanford came up with the third two-hitter of the season by the staff, second in two days, for another 1-0 victory over Philadelphia Thursday. That gave the Giants, held to six hits by loser Robin Roberts and reliever Dick Farrell, their longest winning string since moving to San Francisco in 1958 and padded their lead over idle Pittsburgh.

Third place Milwaukee dropped St. Louis to a sixth straight defeat, winning 4-3 on Ed Mathews' tie-breaking home run in the eighth inning. Cincinnati stretched its winning streak to eight with a 14-1 romp against Chicago's Cubs.

The Giants didn't get a man on base until Willie Kirkland singled and reliever Dick Farrell, their longest winning string since moving to San Francisco in 1958 and padded their lead over idle Pittsburgh.

Mathews' sixth home run, third in two games, broke a 3-3 tie for the Braves and beat reliever Larry Jackson (1-5). The Cards, now 0-10 on the road, got their first two runs on a pair of doubles by Bill White and tied it in the eighth on pinch-hitter Curt Flood's sacrifice fly after starter Bob Shaw had walked the bases loaded. Bob Rush (1-0) won it in relief for the Braves.

The Reds scored seven runs in the first and six in the second with 11 of their 17 hits. Six runs were unearned. Bob Anderson (0-1) lost it. Right-hander Bob Purkey (2-1) was the winner. The Cubs, playing their first game in a week after six consecutive postponements, scored their run, unearned, in the fourth inning.

They made it with their second straight victory over Chicago's first place White Sox Thursday, a 1-0 decision on Tom Brewer's two-hit pitching and a ninth-inning single by Pete Runnels, who took over the AL batting lead at 426.

Bob Shaw was the loser, giving up nine hits.

Boston leap-frogged the New York Yankees, who skidded from second to fourth with a 3-2 11-inning defeat by Cleveland. The Indians, taking third place and also within a half-game of the lead, put it away on Russ Nixon's home run as right-hander Gary Bell out-duelled Ralph Terry for his first victory over the Yankees in six career decisions.

The second division clubs—Baltimore, Detroit, Washington and Kansas City — were rained out.

NEW YORK (AP) — The fate of the Continental League will be decided in Washington beginning next Thursday as the third major baseball league battles the present majors for survival from its current embryonic state.

The battle lines were drawn here Thursday by Continental League founder Bill Shea when he declared his loop's endorsement of a proposed bill by Tennessee Sen. Estes Kefauver that would limit the number of players controlled by the American and National leagues.

Earlier this week, Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said that the present majors would oppose such legislation, declaring it would not only harm the two big leagues but kill the minor leagues as well. The bill would limit the number of players a club could control to 100 and make 60 available for an annual player draft.

Representatives of both factions will testify before a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee headed by Sen. Kefauver.

If the bill becomes law, then the CL would have a good chance to survive because it would be able to obtain players for its major league teams and begin stocking minor league clubs.

If the bill dies?
"Declare war or quit," Shea emphasized Thursday.

No. 27—Middle Irons

By JIMMY DEMARET
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The accompanying illustration shows you the stance for middle-iron shots.

The ball is addressed so that an extension of the center guide line would pass at a point almost equidistant between the heels, as indicated by the arrow. The left foot is taken slightly back from a point on the intended line of flight, so that the entire stance is a bit more open than it is for fairway wood shots or drives.

This is the stance, then, for shots involving the five, six and seven irons. Two, three and four-iron shots should be played at a point midway between the illustrated position for middle irons and the suggested position for fairway woods.

As pointed out in my Golf-to-Music Lessons album, the size of the swing for middle irons is less than that put in use in the hitting of woods or distance irons. Middle irons are shorter-shafted clubs than woods or distance irons, so you are standing closer to the ball.

Almost equidistant

First and foremost, you are taking aim, putting yourself in position to make certain that if your swing is sound, the ball will go where you want it to go.

NEXT: The essentials of a fundamentally-sound stance vary only in proportion.

Bill Maxwell Early Leader In Golf Tourney

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Billy Maxwell, the Texan who has been coming frustratingly close for two years, led a tournament undisputed for the first time in that span today. He was out front in the $30,000 Colonial National Invitation with a 3-under-par 67.

Back in 1955 Maxwell started winning a tournament a year—and this continued until 1959 when he failed to scratch although taking down $27,182 in prize money—the most money to be won by a golfer without a tournament championship.

This year Maxwell has been on the same track—winning $14,109 in 16 events but failing to capture a tournament. He missed at Yorba Linda by a stroke, tied for fifth at DeSoto and in four other tournaments tied for sixth. The last time he was in first place was 1959 and then it was a tie—with Julius Boros in the Big Crosby tournament.

But Thursday, the chunky fellow who registers from Oceanside, Calif., and who's sharp with the press when he's playing poorly, shot a fine round indeed. He was hot with the putter and sure with his irons and he set out today with a one-stroke lead over the field of 54 playing in this 14-year tournament.

Just behind Maxwell was Jerry Barber, the little fellow from Los Angeles who last weekend wrapped up the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas. Barber, shooting his fifth sub-par round in a row, had a 68 although he scrambled for it.

Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, five times winner of the Colonial and a top favorite to repeat his 1959 triumph, was tied for third at 69 with six others—Johnny Palmer, Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., and Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif.

TIPS AND TOPICS

By Chet Joy

I had the privilege of attending the public hearing on the results of the survey and study of the proposed multi purpose development of the Delaware River Basin, held at Port Jervis May 4. This report to the people was well attended and presented with precision and clarity, a credit to the U. S. Army Engineering staff. Needless to say the magnitude of benefits to be derived from this projected water resource development program into the many phases of the economy was met with unanimous approval with supporting speeches by public dignitaries.

However, a summary through analysis and evaluation of the many aspects of the program is in order if much of value as a study in economics, stimulation to growth of business, industry and recreation is not to be lost due to projected time factor in completion of this regional program.

1. The Delaware River Basin, only 265 miles long, contributes 17 per cent of the wealth of the nation, serves 22 million people and is one of the largest concentration of industry in the world, an astounding fact of the national economy.

2. The proposed water resource development program consists of 11 structural dams for 45 per cent flood control needed water supply, recreation, pollution control and 385 million kilowatts hydroelectric power annually serving the states of New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

3. Preliminary study "308 report" in 1933 was deemed economically unfeasible. Final comprehensive plan—1959. Start of program 1965. Completion 2010.

4. Elapsed time from preliminary study to completion of program 77 years.

5. Cost of program $263 millions, 1959 level. Comparison values New York State 1959 highway program $400 million approximate.

6. Flood damage in the Delaware River and tributaries $8 million annually. A figure for 77 year period $616 million. 46 per cent of flood control should cut damage to a minimum.

One important phase of industry of the Delaware Basin is steel. One automobile represents in the excess of one ton of steel. Sixty thousand gallons of water make a ton of steel. It takes 7 to 10 gallons of water to process one gallon of gasoline. There are an estimated 57 million autos on the national highways today, more water running swiftly on rubber tires in seasons of droughts than we have in many of our rivers.

Let's take a crystal ball gaze into the future year of 2010. Population growth will be double. What about autos? What fuels will be available in quantity needed? How about air pollution from burning fuels reaching the critical stage now in large city areas? Water is the only fuel that replenishes itself minus harmful toxic residue. Water is basically responsible for our health, levels, welfare recreation and growth of the economy the past half century. What about the next 50-year span where automation in industry will play an important role in volume output of goods needed. A sense of values will determine the future progress of the nation.

If we had fully harnessed the Delaware Basin in the 1930's what would the inducement to the expansion of the multi-phases of the economy have been today percentage-wise? What would total benefits be by 2010 if completed by 1957?

The time is now to lift all eyes to the hills with vision from whence all benefits flow.

Frank Howard

Is Recalled

By Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The punchless Los Angeles Dodgers have recalled strongbrow Frank Howard from their Spokane farm club. To make room for him, they placed veteran outfielder Carl Furillo on the inactive list.

Howard joined the world champions in San Francisco for their game tonight against the Giants. He brought a .371 batting average from Spokane, including 24 runs batted in and four homers.

Draft of a thank-you note from a 6-year-old girl: Thank you grand-mother for the lovely pin cushion you sent for my birthday. It is something I have never wanted.

Mark Twain and his peculiarities were being discussed by an English class in a Missouri high school. One youthful orator had very eloquently described Mark Twain's personal appearance and had laid unusual stress on the author's fondness for wearing white flannels.

"Gee!" said one much-interested youth, "I don't see how the public knows whether his flannels were red or white."

Listen, she replied, if anyone offered you a check for a million dollars, would you stop to look at the date?
